

Diesel Duck® comes to aid of Dunkirk Little Ship

Eliminating Diesel Bug and keeping Angele Aline sailing

The Problem

Mr Chris Casey approached MarShip earlier this year (2017) as he had evidence of diesel bug and water in his fuel. The filters were constantly being blocked with slimy residue. The long term solution was to install a static dewatering unit but we felt it was essential to address the problem in the first instance. We offered him the hire of a Diesel Duck® - a portable dewatering and polishing unit.

Fuel was taken from the bottom of the tank and returned to the top with any free water automatically discharged into a container.

Testimonial

"Thank you very much for your help with resolving my diesel bug problems with the fuel supply for Angele Aline. The situation was made a little more complicated by the fact the boat was in France so communication lines were extended but you did everything possible to support me which was greatly appreciated.

The Diesel Duck did a superb job of ridding me of the dreaded bug and in addition the advice I received from you was invaluable because with your help I now think we have a regime that will avoid any repetition of the problem.

I would highly recommend your services to anyone who either has diesel bug in his tanks or is keen to avoid it in the future."
