Information, the way YOU want it.

In your organization, data that is meaningful and easy to interpret creates a powerful tool for developing new strategies that boost your bottom line. ZulaFly aims to package data in a way that makes it easy to digest on your own terms, giving you access to all your data in multiple formats. Use data-driven reports to guide business decisions, understand trends and view historical information. ZulaFly's Fuzion platform helps you develop reports related to audit history, contact history, location history and response times to name a few. Additionally, notification history reports and temperature reports are examples of important data perspectives that create a valuable snapshot of activity within your organization. Want to make sure certain people always have access to a specific type of report? Delivering this information has never been easier than with ZulaFly's report scheduler. The report scheduler allows the user to pick the report, date, time and enter the e-mail address of the recipients. ZulaFly's goal is to create information that is relevant to YOU, with a focus on providing a flexible, customized solution to any industry. Reports can be generated and delivered in ways that best serve the objectives of your organization. Maximize strategy, improve results, and launch your business to a heightened level of success.
