Your seminar booking is sold subject to the Consumer Protection (Distance Selling) Regulations 2000. These regulations give EU consumers certain extra rights over and above their ordinary statutory consumer rights. There is a 7 working day 'cooling off' period for all bookings. This means that money paid for services can be refunded up to 7 working days after payment. After this cooling off period, no refunds will be available and no cancellations will be accepted. This cooling off period is subject to one limitation. If the seminar is to take place less than 7 working days after payment, then a 'cooling off' period does not apply. By booking for this seminar you accept this limitation.
