

Dr. Simon Tucker

Simon is an experienced manager, coach, trainer and Organisational Consultant. He is a visiting Professor in Coaching and Consultancy at an International University as well as Doctoral supervisor and Associate Organising Tutor on Masters and Doctorate programmes in Organisational Consultancy at the Tavistock Clinic in London.

He was previously the Director of the Masters programme in Strategic Leadership and Management also at the Tavistock, and a Senior Honorary Lecturer at Essex. He was also previously Executive Director and Board Member of OPUS, an International Charity.

Background and Consulting Experience

Simon has consulted to a wide range of clients, including Leaders within Education, Central Government, Health and Social Care, and to senior management level in the global corporate and voluntary sectors.

He has a particular interest in leadership and team functioning under pressure and has published in this area (Tucker, 2011 and 2014).

Simon's background includes over twenty-five years experience of management in a variety of Services within Social Care and the National Health Service in Britain, including Mental Health Services.

Through his leadership experience, his practice as a consultant and his Doctoral research, Simon has developed an interest in leadership, secondary trauma, stress, as well as health and wellbeing in organisations in times of change.

Qualifications

- Post Graduate Diploma Therapeutic Care
- Diploma Social Work
- Hons Degree Social Work
- Advance Award Social Work
- Masters Degree Consultation and the Organisation
- Doctorate Consultation and the Organisation
- MBTI Step 1 and 2
- FIRO - all elements

Areas of Expertise

Leadership role development
Team Development
Conflict in work relationships
Systemic Learning under pressure
Stress
Transitions and Change

Sectors

Healthcare
Education
Government
Financial Services
Social Work