

How the SBFE model works

SBFE gathers and protects the largest aggregation of small business payment data in the U.S. and leverages the power of that data to help the small business industry build a true and accurate picture of small business credit.

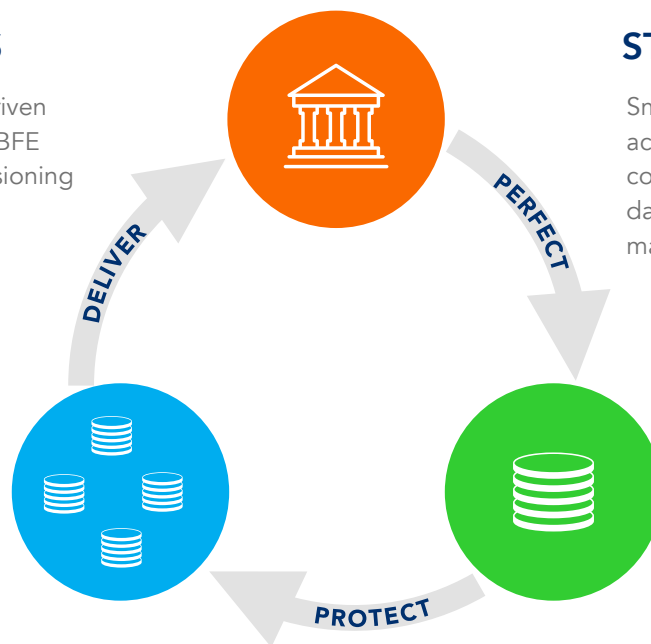

A Give-to-Get Exchange

STEP 4: SBFE MEMBERS

Members may purchase SBFE Data-driven products developed and offered by SBFE Certified Vendors for their credit decisioning and portfolio monitoring functions.

STEP 1: SBFE MEMBERS

Small business lenders and merchant acquirers become members and contribute their commercial performance data to SBFE where it is protected from marketing use.

STEP 3: CERTIFIED VENDORS

SBFE-approved commercial credit reporting agencies develop risk products using SBFE Data exclusively for members.

STEP 2: SBFE DATA WAREHOUSE

SBFE normalizes data received from members and governs both contribution quality and SBFE vendor compliance.

Value of SBFE Data

10/10

Largest U.S. business card issuers contribute data to SBFE

39+ million

Estimated small and micro businesses represented

19+

Years of historical data, dating back to 2001

85+ million

Accounts represented in SBFE data

9

Of the top 10 commercial lenders contribute data to SBFE

135

Approximate members, including 420 total portfolios, 69% of which are contributed by traditional financial lenders

SBFE Membership Offers

SBFE Members rely on SBFE's distinctive information security, risk and data governance controls. This confidence attracts lenders and merchant acquirers of all sizes and types from across the industry, making SBFE Data a rich and robust information source which enables sound credit risk management decisions.

Data Governance

Highly Predictive Data

Productivity

Industry Leadership

Be part of the SBFE Model

3 Steps to Becoming a Member

- 1 Complete the SBFE Member Application
- 2 Execute the Member Participation Agreement
- 3 Contribute your data to the SBFE Data Warehouse to get access to the insights only available through SBFE membership

Access to SBFE Data-driven Products

If you would like to learn more about the SBFE Certified Vendors and SBFE data-driven products and services, contact info@sbfe.org to request contact information for each approved Certified Vendor.