7. Client Money

We will not hold money or assets on your behalf.

8. Aggregation & Allocation

We may combine your order with our own orders, those of our associates, directors, or employees and orders of other clients except where your order instructs us to the contrary. The effect of such aggregation may sometimes work to your disadvantage in relation to a particular order. We will allocate transactions entered into as a result of such aggregation fairly in accordance with FCA rules and our order allocation policy. Where we aggregate one or more of your orders with those of any other person resulting in a series of transactions we may determine the amount due from you (or on a sale, the amount due to you) as the price paid for each investment or a volume weighted average of the prices of a series of transactions over several days which may result in a report to you of the average of prices effected during the time required to effect a purchase or sale.

9. Default & Security

You hereby irrevocably grant us a first fixed charge (with full title guarantee) and a general lien and right of set off with respect to all cash, investments or other assets of any description paid or delivered (or which are due to be paid or delivered) to us for your account in settlement of any transaction. You represent and warrant to SI Capital and all members of SI Capital's Group of Companies that all such cash, investments or other assets are beneficially owned by you or are paid or delivered to us with the beneficial owner's consent and free and clear of any charge, lien or encumbrance and that you will not charge, assign or otherwise dispose of or create any interest in such cash, investments or other assets other than in accordance with the Terms set out in or agreement without our prior written consent.

You agree, at our request, to take such action as we may require to protect or enforce any security interest referred to above and you hereby irrevocably appoint us as your attorney to take such action on your behalf without further reference to you.

You acknowledge and agree that if you fail to comply with any of your obligations under these Terms the security interests referred to above shall be enforceable and the powers conferred by section 101 of the Law of Property Act 1925 (as varied and extended by these Terms) shall be exercisable. Section 101 of the Law of Property Act 1925 shall not apply to these Terms.

You acknowledge that you will not have any right, title or interest in respect of any cash or investments that are due to be received pursuant to a transaction or instruction and that we shall have no obligation to account to you for any such cash or investments until you have performed to SI Capital's reasonable satisfaction your obligations in relation to such transactions and we, as your agent, have been able to settle such transactions. We shall, without further notice to you, be entitled to sell, close out, cancel, terminate or reverse all or any contracts or transactions at our discretion and apply any proceeds or any such cash received by us under a relevant settlement in discharge or reduction of any of your obligations in relation to any such transactions.

10. Stabilisation

We may recommend transactions in investments, the prices of which may be the subject of stabilisation. We draw your attention to the 'Dealing in securities which may be subject to stabilisation' Notice in Appendix B.

11. Warrants

- 11.1 We may recommend transactions in warrants to you. Warrants often involve a high degree of gearing so that a relatively small movement in the price of the security to which the warrant relates may result in a disproportionately large movement, unfavourable as well as favourable, in the price of the warrant.
- 11.2 Your attention is specifically drawn to the 'Warrants and Derivatives Risk Warning' Notice in Appendix C.

12. Derivatives (options, futures, contract for differences, foreign exchange and contingent liability transactions)

- 12.1 Where specified in Fact Find, we may:
- 12.1.1 recommend transactions in options, futures and contract for differences, foreign exchange; and/or
 - 12.1.2 recommend other transactions in options relating to investments other than those described in clause 11.1.1 above, including contingent liability transactions, both on and off market and/or exchange.
- 12.2 Your attention is specifically drawn to the 'Warrants and Derivatives Risk Warning' Notice in Appendix C.

13. Closed ended funds, collective investment schemes and packaged products

- 13.1 Where specified in Fact Find, we may recommend transactions in:
- 13.1.1 regulated collective investment schemes;
 - 13.1.2 investment trusts and other public investment funds;
 - 13.1.3 packaged products (including products referred to in clauses 12.1.1 and 12.1.2 above).
- 13.2 Where indicated in Fact Find, we may recommend transactions in unregulated collective investment schemes.
- 13.3 Where indicated in Fact Find, we may recommend transactions in Connected Funds.
- 13.4 If units in an unregulated collective investment scheme are recommended, you shall not have any right to cancel any such transaction under FCA Rules.
- 13.5 Our polarisation status is that we are a privately owned fully independent firm of Stockbrokers.

14. Authority

- 14.1 Any person notified to us as being authorised by you may give us oral or written instructions concerning any transaction or proposed transaction or any other matter. You authorise us to rely and act on, and treat as fully authorised by and binding upon you, any order, instruction or communication (by whatever means transmitted and whether or not in writing) which purports to have been given, and which we reasonably believe to have been given, by you or on your behalf, without further enquiry on our part as to the genuineness, authority or identity of the person giving or purporting to give such instructions; and you will be responsible for and bound by all contract, obligations, costs and expenses entered into or assumed by us on your behalf in consequence of or in connection with orders, instructions or communication.
- 14.2 You expressly acknowledge that you will not require us to do or refrain from doing anything which would in our opinion infringe any applicable laws, rules, regulations or codes of market conduct (including without limitation the FCA Code of Market Conduct, the rules of the Exchanges on which we transact and the City Code on Takeovers and Mergers) (together, the applicable regulations) and we may at any time without notice do whatever we consider necessary to comply with the applicable regulations.

15. Fees & Charges

- 15.1 The fees and charges payable by you for our services under this Agreement, including the basis of their calculation and how frequently they are to be paid and collected, are specified in our rate card ("Rate Card") attached at Appendix D. Any amendments to the fees and charges specified in Appendix D will be notified to you in writing.
- 15.2 We may periodically invoice you even though a transaction is not completed. We will usually invoice you every 12 months, unless the transaction is completed within that time or circumstances or the amount due are such that we consider another billing basis more appropriate.
- 15.3 You will be responsible for payment of any taxes (including, without limitation, any value added tax which will be paid in addition to our charges) and any brokerage fees, transfer fees, registration fees, stamp duty and all other charges, costs and expenses payable or incurred or paid by us in connection with our services to you.
- 15.4 Unless so specified in this Agreement, we shall not be liable to account to you for or (save in respect of fees or commissions charged to you) to disclose to you any profit, commission or remuneration made or received (whether from any client or otherwise) by us by reason of any transaction recommended to you.
- 15.5 We may share dealing charges with our associated companies or other third parties, or receive remuneration from them in respect of transactions carried out on your behalf. Details of any such remuneration or sharing arrangements will be made available to you on request.

16. Payment out of Clients monies

You hereby give us authority to direct your custodian to make payment out of any monies held of all invoices and other requests for payment in respect thereof presented to it by us.

17. Consent to direct contact

- 17.1 You expressly invite us, for the purpose of administering the terms of this Agreement to make direct contact with you by telephone, fax, or otherwise.
- 17.2 Where you expressly state on your application or by other written medium, we may contact you from time to time for the purposes of marketing financial services and products. You consent and acknowledge that such communications would not be considered by you as being a breach of any of your rights under and relevant data and/or privacy regulations including the GDPR.

18. Risks associated with investment advisory services

- 18.1 All forms of investment which may be recommended by us involve risk. The value of investments and the income derived from them can fall as well as rise and is not guaranteed.
- 18.2 Your attention is also specifically drawn to the following types of transactions which we may recommend to you and the risks associated with such transactions:
- 18.2.1 Non readily realisable investments
- We may recommend investments and other assets which are not readily realisable, which means that there is no recognised market for them. It may therefore be difficult to deal in such investments or to obtain reliable information about their value or the extent of the risks to which they are exposed.
- 18.2.2 AIM RISK WARNING NOTICE

Investments in AIM companies may not be readily realisable and there is less liquidity in this market - if they have to be sold immediately you may get back much less than you paid for them. The price may change quickly and may go down as well as up.

- All investments into AIM or NEX Exchange shares are speculative and will fluctuate in value. It should NOT be assumed that the value of investments will always rise. Past performance will NOT necessarily be repeated and is no guarantee of future success.
- You should carefully consider in the light of your financial resources whether investing in stocks and shares is suitable for you.
- AIM or NEX Exchange shares. You run an extra risk of losing money when you buy shares in certain smaller companies including "AIM/ NEX Exchange". There is a big difference between the buying price and the selling price of these shares. If you have to sell them immediately, you may get back much less than you paid for them. You may have difficulty in selling these shares. The price may change quickly and it may go down as well as up and it may be more difficult to buy and sell shares in this category. You should therefore not invest amounts you cannot afford to lose.

- Non-readily Realisable Investments. You may have difficulty in selling such investments at a reasonable price. In some circumstances it may be difficult to sell them at any price. It can be difficult to assess what would be a proper market price for these investments. You should not invest in these unless you have thought carefully about whether you can afford it and whether it is right for you.
- AIM. The AIM market of the London Stock Exchange is a market designed primarily for emerging or smaller companies. The rules of this market are less demanding than those of the official List of the London Stock Exchange and therefore carry a greater risk than a company with a full listing.
- Nex Exchange is authorised as a Prescribed Market under the FSMA 2000. It is not a recognised or designated investment exchange and companies trading on NEX Exchange are not listed or subject to the same level of regulation as those companies trading on the AIM or those companies with a full listing on the London Stock Exchange. It may be difficult to obtain reliable information about the current trading position of companies on NEX Exchange and if there is only one market-maker quoting prices, there may be occasion where you may have difficulty in buying or selling shares at a reasonable price or at all. Similarly the difference between the buying and selling prices can be wide and prices being quoted on NEX Exchange may only be indicative prices and not firm two-way prices. Additionally, there may have been little or no trading in the stock since its issue. Consequently, there is a higher level of risk attached to companies trading on NEX Exchange and if you have to sell shares in these companies immediately, you may get back much less than you paid for them.

18.2.3 Exchange rate risk

A movement of exchange rates may affect, unfavourably as well as favourably, any gain or loss on an investment recommended by us.

18.2.4 Stabilisation, Warrant and Derivatives (Options, Futures, Contract for Differences foreign exchange and Contingent Liability Transactions)

We are in addition authorised to recommend transactions of the kind referred to in the following clauses of this Agreement:

- (a) clause 9: Stabilisation; and
- (b) clause 10: Warrants; and
- (c) clause 11: Derivatives (Options, Futures, Contract for Differences and Contingent Liability Transactions), and your attention is drawn to the specific risks associated with such transactions referred to therein and in Appendix B (Dealing in securities which may be subject to stabilisation) and Appendix C (Warrants and Derivatives risk warning notice).

18.3 You acknowledge that you have read the notice set out in Appendix C and that you understand the nature of the risks which are inherent in securities trading and that you are prepared to accept these risks.

19. Conflicts of interest and material interests

- 19.1 Your attention is drawn to the fact that if we give you advice or deal or arrange deals for you we, an associate or some other person connected with us, may have an interest, relationship or arrangement that is material in relation to the transaction or investment concerned. However, our employees are required to comply with a policy of independence and to disregard any such interest when they advise you.
- 19.2 By way of example only, when we recommend a transaction to you we may be:
involved in a new issue, rights issue, takeover or similar transaction concerning that investment, whether as financial adviser, stockbroker, underwriter or in some other capacity; or interested in a company the securities of which we recommend to you (including holding a long or short position).
- 19.3 We are authorised by you to advise, deal or arrange deals, notwithstanding any conflict of interest or the existence of any material interest in a transaction, without prior reference to you, and will not be under any obligation to account to you for any profits or benefits arising.
- 19.4 Our full Conflicts of Interest policy is available on request.

20. Research

- 20.1 Our employees, officers and directors and (as the case may be) the employees, officers and directors of any of our associates may receive or have knowledge of research reports and recommendations before such research reports and recommendations are provided to you.
- 20.2 We and our associates may act upon or use such research reports and recommendations (or any conclusions which they may express or the research or analysis on which they may be based) before such research reports and recommendations are provided to you if so disclosed in any such report. However, we will not be under any obligation when we deal in investments for or with you to take account of any such research reports or recommendations. In all cases, you should conduct your own investigation and analysis of a potential investment before taking or not taking any action.

21. Agency

- 21.1 We do not have or accept any responsibility towards any person on whose behalf you are acting, unless we have established a separate client relationship with that person. If you inform us that you are acting as the agent of an identified principal, we will nevertheless treat you as our client, and will provide our services on the basis that we hold you responsible for obligations entered into on your instructions. In giving any advice to you, we will rely on any relevant information given to us by you regarding your principals.
- 21.2 We may delegate any of our functions under this Agreement to an associate and may provide information about you to any such associate by our liability to you for all matters so delegated shall not be affected thereby.
- 21.3 We may employ agents to perform any administrative and ancillary services required to enable us to perform the Services under this Agreement.

22. Assignment and Third Party Rights

- 22.1 This Agreement is personal to you and is not capable of assignment by you and your obligations will not be capable of performance by anybody else without our consent. We may, on giving one month's prior written notice to you, appoint any appropriate associate as investment manager in our place and shall then transfer to such appointee all the benefits of this Agreement and all our obligations hereunder.
- 22.2 A person who is not a party to this Agreement may not enforce any of its terms under the Contract (Rights of Third Parties) Act 1999 but this does not affect any right or remedy of a third party which exists or is available other than under such Act.

23. Exclusion of liability and indemnity

- 23.1 Neither we nor our associates nor our or their officers or employees will be liable for any error of judgment or any loss suffered by you in connection with the Services we provide under this Agreement (and in particular, but without limitation, we will not be liable for any loss which may be sustained in the purchase, holding or sale of any investments or other assets in connection with those services), unless such loss results from either our or their negligence, wilful default or fraud.
- 23.2 We will be under no liability for any loss or expense you incur by reason of any delay or change in market conditions before any particular transaction is effected.

- 23.3 We will not be liable to you for the non-performance of any of our obligations by reason of any cause beyond our control, including any breakdown or failure of transmission or communication or computer facilities, postal or other strikes or delays or any other industrial action or the failure of any relevant exchange, clearing house, broker and/or counterparty for any reason to perform its obligations.
- 23.4 You will indemnify us and our associates and their officers and employees against any cost, loss, liability or expense whatsoever which may be suffered or incurred by us and/or them directly or indirectly in connection with, or as a result of, any service performed or action permitted under this Agreement, except to the extent it is caused by our and/or their negligence, wilful default or fraud.
- 23.5 We will not be liable for any default of any counterparty, bank, custodian, sub-custodian or other entity which holds money, investments or other documents of title on your behalf or with or through whom transactions are conducted on your behalf.
- 23.6 Nothing in this Agreement will exclude or restrict any obligation or liability which we have or owe to you under the FCA Rules in relation to you, nor any liability which we may incur under the Act or the FCA Rules in respect of a breach of any such obligation, nor will anything in this Agreement require you to indemnify or compensate us to any extent prohibited by the FCA Rules.
- 23.7 We give no warranty as to the recommendations and/or advice given by us under or pursuant to this Agreement or as to the performance or profitability of your assets. We cannot guarantee that investments recommended will not depreciate in value or that they will not be affected by adverse tax consequences. You and any professional tax adviser that you instruct remain responsible for the management of your affairs for tax purposes. We are under no obligation to advise you on the tax implications of transactions and where we do so you should not rely on such advice but should seek your own professional advice.

24. Warranties

- 24.1 You represent and warrant that:
- 24.1.1 you have full power to employ us;
- 24.1.2 any information which you have provided to us, including in relation to your status for taxation purposes, is complete and accurate and you agree to provide any further information properly required by any competent authority. You will notify us forthwith if there is any material change in any such information provided; and
- 24.1.3 you have and will have all necessary consents and authorities to enable all transactions in investments under this Agreement to be effected and that in respect of each transaction, so far as you can ensure, all applicable regulations have been complied with.
- 24.2 You shall promptly give (or procure to be given) to us such information as we may require to enable us to comply with all applicable disclosure obligations or requirements from time to time under the Companies Act 1985, the City Code on Takeovers and Mergers, the FCA Rules and the laws, rules or regulations of any relevant jurisdiction, exchange, market or regulatory authority which apply in respect of us, you and/or the investments.

25. Changes

Subject as stated below, this Agreement may only be amended by a written variation agreed between us. However, we may amend this Agreement by written notice to you if any changes described in the notice are, in our opinion, required to enable us to comply with applicable regulations from time to time. Any such changes will become effective ten days after the notice is sent, or later if so specified.

26. Complaints

We have a documented complaint handling procedure, which will be made available on request. As an Eligible Complainant you are entitled to register your complaint with the Financial Ombudsman Service, should you be unsatisfied with our response.

27. Compensation

The custodians that SI Capital utilise to hold client assets are covered by the UK's Financial Services Compensation Scheme ("FSCS"). Compensation may be available from the FSCS if the custodian cannot meet its obligations to you. Your possible entitlement to compensation will depend upon the type of business and the circumstances of the claim. Most types of investment businesses are currently covered for 100% of a claim up to a maximum of £50,000. Further information about compensation arrangements is available from the FSCS, www.fscs.org.uk.

28. Communications

- 28.1 All contract notes, advice notes or similar communications will be despatched or transmitted to you at your address shown in our records for this purpose and will be conclusive and binding on you unless objection in writing is received by us within 24 hours after receipt by you. In proving delivery, it will be sufficient for us to prove that the communication was correctly addressed and posted or delivered or that it was effectively transmitted electronically. We will have authority to communicate with you on any matter which may arise in connection with the services which we have agreed to provide to you, without your having expressly invited us to make such a communication.
- 28.2 All other notices, letters and other written communications will be sent by you to our address as shown on the first page of this agreement and by us to your address as shown on Fact Find (unless you notify us in writing to the contrary as regards your address) and will be deemed to have been received at the times when in the ordinary course they would have been received.

29. Amendments

Any amendment to this Agreement proposed by either you or us shall be notified by the other party in writing. Any amendment by us shall take effect on the date specified (being not less than 10 business days after the issue of the notice) unless you, in the meantime, notify us to the contrary or request a further extension of time. Any amendment proposed by you shall take effect when accepted in writing by us.

30. Termination

- 30.1 Both you and us are entitled to terminate this Agreement by giving the other party immediate written notice, the termination to take effect upon receipt of that notice by the receiving party.
- 30.2 We are also entitled to terminate this Agreement without notice to you if, within the period of twelve months prior to termination, you have not instructed us to arrange any transaction in investments pursuant to this Agreement.
- 30.3 No penalty will become due from either you or us in respect of the termination of these arrangements. However, we will be entitled to receive from you all fees, commissions, costs and expenses accrued or incurred up to and including the date of termination (including any additional costs, expenses and losses incurred in terminating this Agreement and/or dealing in investments with or for you in connection with such termination) and we may require you to pay reasonable charges for transferring your investments to another investment firm.
- 30.4 Termination of this Agreement will not affect outstanding rights or actual, future or contingent liabilities. The terms of this Agreement will apply to these liabilities until all transactions and contract have been closed out, settled or delivery effected and all liabilities finally, unconditionally and irrevocably discharged.
- 30.5 Termination will not affect any provision of this Agreement which is intended to survive termination.

31. Joint clients and trustees

SI Capital Ltd is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. Member of the London Stock Exchange.

APPENDIX B - DEALING IN SECURITIES WHICH MAY BE SUBJECT TO STABILISATION

This statement complies with the rules of the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA)

SI Capital or its representatives may, from time to time, recommend transactions in securities to you, or carry out such transactions on your behalf, where the price may have been influenced by measures taken to stabilise it.

You should read the explanation below carefully. This is designed to help you judge whether you wish your funds to be invested at all in such securities and, if you do, whether you wish:

- (1) to be consulted before SI Capital carries out any such transaction on your behalf; or
- (2) to authorise SI Capital to carry out any such transaction on your behalf without first having to consult you.

What is stabilisation?

Stabilisation enables the market price of a security to be maintained artificially during the period when a new issue of securities is sold to the public. Stabilisation may affect not only the price of the new issue but also the price of other securities relating to it.

The FCA allows stabilisation in order to help counter the fact that, when a new issue comes onto the market for the first time, the price can sometimes drop for a time before buyers are found.

Stabilisation is being carried out by a 'stabilisation manager' (normally the firm chiefly responsible for bringing a new issue to market). As long as the stabilising manager follows a strict set of rules, he is entitled to buy back securities that were previously sold to investors or allotted to institutions which have decided not to keep them. The effect of this may be to keep the price at a higher level than it would otherwise be during the period of stabilisation.

The Stabilisation Rules:

- (1) limit the period when a stabilising manager may stabilise a new issue;
- (2) fix the price at which he may stabilise (in the case of shares and warrants but not bonds); and
- (3) require him to disclose that he may be stabilising but not that he is actually doing so.

The fact that a new issue or a related security is being stabilised should not be taken as any indication of the level of interest from investors, nor of the price at which they are prepared to buy the securities.

APPENDIX C - WARRANTS AND DERIVATIVES RISK WARNING NOTICE

This notice is provided to you, as a Retail Client, in compliance with the rules of the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA). Retail Clients are afforded greater protections under these rules than other clients are and you should ensure that your firm tells you what this will mean to you.

This notice cannot disclose all the risks and other significant aspects of [warrants and/or] derivative products such as futures or options or contract for differences.

You should not deal in these products unless you understand their nature and the extent of your exposure to risk. You should also be satisfied that the product is suitable for you in the light of your circumstances and financial position. Certain strategies, such as a spread position or a straddle, may be as risky as a simple long or short position.

Although warrants and/or derivative instruments can be utilised for the management of investment risk, some of these products are unsuitable for many investors. Different instruments involve different levels of exposure to risk and in deciding whether to trade in such instruments you should be aware of the following points:

1. Warrants

A warrant is a time-limited right to subscribe for shares, debentures, loan stock or government securities and is exercisable against the original issuer of the underlying securities. A relatively small movement in the price of the underlying security results in a disproportionately large movement, unfavourable or favourable, in the price of the warrant. The prices of warrants can therefore be volatile.

It is essential for anyone who is considering purchasing warrants to understand that the right to subscribe which a warrant confers is invariably limited in time with the consequence that if the investor fails to exercise this right within the predetermined time-scale, then the investment becomes worthless.

You should not buy a warrant unless you are prepared to sustain a total loss of the money you have invested plus any commission or other transaction charges.

Some other instruments are also called warrants but are actually options (for example, a right to acquire securities which is exercisable against someone other than the original issuer of the securities, often called a 'covered warrant').

2. Off-exchange warrant transactions

Transactions in off-exchange warrants may involve greater risk than dealing in exchange traded warrants because there is no exchange market through which to liquidate your position, or to assess the value of the warrant or the exposure to risk. Bid and offer prices need not be quoted, and even when they are, they will be established by dealers in these instruments and consequently it may be difficult to establish what is a fair price.

Your firm must make it clear to you if you are entering into an off-exchange transaction and advise you of any risks involved.

3. Securitised derivatives

These instruments may give you a time-limited right or an absolute right to acquire or sell one or more types of investment which is normally exercisable against someone other than the issuer of that investment. Or they may give you rights under a contract for differences which allow for speculation on fluctuations in the value of the property of any description or an index, such as the FTSE 100 index. In both cases the investment or property may be referred to as the "underlying instrument".

These instruments often involve a high degree of gearing or leverage, so that a relatively small movement in the price of the underlying investment results in a much larger movement, unfavourable or favourable, in the price of the instrument. The price of these instruments can therefore be volatile. These instruments have a limited life, and may (unless there is some form of guaranteed return to the amount you are investing in the product) expire worthless if the underlying instrument does not perform as expected.

You should only buy this product if you are prepared to sustain a total or substantial loss of the money you have invested plus any commission or other transaction charges.

You should consider carefully whether or not this product is suitable for you in light of your circumstances and financial position, and if in any doubt please seek professional advice.

4. Futures

Transactions in futures involve the obligation to make, or to take, delivery on the underlying asset of the contract at a future date, or in some cases to settle the position with cash. They carry a high degree of risk. The 'gearing' or 'leverage' often obtainable in futures trading means that a small deposit or down payment can lead to large losses as well as gains. It also means that a relatively small movement can lead to a proportionately much larger movement in the value of your investment, and this can work against you as well as for you. Futures transactions have a contingent liability, and you should be aware of the implications of this, in particular the margining requirements, which are set out in paragraph 9.

5. Options

There are many different types of options with different characteristics subject to the following conditions.

Buying options:

Buying options involves less risk than selling options because, if the price of the underlying asset moves against you, you can simply allow the option to lapse. The maximum loss is limited to the premium, plus any commission or other transaction charges. However, if you buy a call option on a futures contract and you later exercise the option, you will acquire the future. This will expose you to the risks described under 'futures' and 'contingent liability investment transactions'.

Writing options:

If you write an option, the risk involved is considerably greater than buying options. You may be liable for margin to maintain your position and a loss may be sustained well in excess of the premium received. By writing an option, you accept a legal obligation to purchase or sell the underlying asset if the option is exercised against you, however far the market price has moved away from the exercise price. If you already own the underlying asset which you have contracted to sell (when the options will be known as 'covered call options') the risk is reduced. If you do not own the underlying asset ('uncovered call options') the risk can be unlimited. Only experienced persons should contemplate writing uncovered options, and then only after securing full details of the applicable conditions and potential risk exposure.

Traditional options:

Certain London Stock Exchange member firms under special exchange rules write a particular type of option called a 'traditional option'. These may involve greater risk than other options. Two-way prices are not usually quoted and there is no exchange market on which to close out an open position or to effect an equal and opposite transaction to reverse an open position. It may be difficult to assess its value or for the seller of such an option to manage his exposure to risk.

Certain options markets operate on a margined basis, under which buyers do not pay the full premium on their option at the time they purchase it. In this situation, you may subsequently be called upon to pay margin on the option up to the level of your premium. If you fail to do so as required, your position may be closed or liquidated in the same way as a futures position.

6. Contract for differences

Futures and options contracts can also be referred to as contract for differences. These can be options and futures on the FTSE 100 index or any other index, as well as currency and interest rate swaps. However, unlike other futures and options, these contracts can only be settled in cash. Investing in a contract for differences carries the same risks as investing in a future or an option and you should be aware of these as set out in paragraphs 4 and 5 respectively. Transactions in contract for differences may also have a contingent liability and you should be aware of the implications of this as set out in paragraph 9 below.

7. Foreign Exchange Trading and Multi-Currency Account

A. Arranging Service:

SI Capital will act as a professional advisor in providing the Client with an Execution Only or Advisory Foreign Exchange Trading service and although the Client's relationship remains with SI Capital, in signing this agreement and Risk Warning Notice the Client also acknowledges that they agree in full to the terms set out within Deutsche Bank's Client Agreement and High Risk Investment Risk Disclosure Notice for Foreign Exchange Margin Trading. A current version of which can be found at www.dbfx.com and also makes up part of the DBFX Foreign Exchange Margin Trading Application Form.

B. General Risk:

The Client understands and acknowledges that buying and selling securities, options, futures and other financial products that are denominated in foreign currencies or traded on foreign markets is inherently risky and requires substantial knowledge and expertise. Clients' applying for Deutsche Bank's Multi-Currency enabled accounts represent that they are aware of and understand the risks involved in trading foreign securities, options, futures and currencies and that they have sufficient financial resources to bear such risks. Any investment made in products of this type of should be considered as risk capital (money that you can afford to lose) and this type of investment may not be suitable for all investors depending on personal financial circumstance and investment objectives of the individual client. If there is any doubt with regard to your suitability to invest in these types of companies then you should always seek advice from your broker or an independent professional investment advisor.

C. Client Responsibility for Investment Decisions:

The client acknowledges that while SI Capital are authorised to provide investment, trading advice by the FCA any losses incurred as a result of opening a Foreign Exchange trading account with Deutsche Bank remain the responsibility of the client. Past performance may not be repeated and there is no guarantee of future success. Clients must evaluate carefully whether any particular investment product is appropriate for them in light of their investment experience, financial objectives and needs, financial resources, and other relevant circumstances. SI Capital are not qualified to give tax advice and we strongly recommend that Clients obtain independent business, legal, and accounting advice before entering into any transactions.

D. Exchange Rate Risk:

Exchange rates between foreign currencies can change rapidly due to a wide range of economic, political and other conditions, exposing the Client to risk of exchange rate losses in addition to the inherent risk of loss from trading the underlying financial product. If a Client deposits funds in a currency to trade products denominated in a different currency, Client's gains or losses on the underlying investment therefore may be affected by changes in the exchange rate between the currencies. If Client is trading on margin, the impact of currency fluctuation on Client's gains or losses may be even greater.

E. Currency Fluctuation:

When Client uses the spot foreign exchange facility provided by Deutsche Bank to purchase or sell foreign currency, fluctuation in currency exchange rates between the foreign currency and the base currency could cause substantial losses to the Client, including losses when the Client converts the foreign currency back into the base currency.

F. Foreign Currency Exchange Transactions Unregulated:

Spot foreign currency exchange transactions between Client and Deutsche Bank are not regulated or overseen by the FCA.

G. Nature of Foreign Currency Exchange Transactions Between Client and Deutsche Bank:

When Client enters into a foreign exchange transaction, the client will be entering into a privately negotiated transaction with one of Deutsche Bank's affiliates or with a third party bank. In such transactions, Deutsche Bank's affiliate or the third party bank ("the Foreign Exchange Counterparty") is acting solely in the capacity of an arm's length contractual counterparty in connection with the transaction and not in the capacity of a financial adviser or fiduciary. Client should be aware that the Foreign Exchange Counterparty may from time to time have substantial positions in, and may make a market in or otherwise buy or sell instruments similar or economically related to, foreign currency transactions entered into with Client. The Foreign Exchange Counterparty may also undertake proprietary trading activities, including hedging transactions related to the initiation or termination of foreign exchange transactions with Client, that may adversely affect the market price or other factors underlying the foreign currency transaction entered into with Client and consequently, the value of such transaction.

H. Trades Not Executed or Cleared by an Exchange:

Foreign exchange transactions executed by Client through Deutsche Bank are not executed on an exchange and are not cleared by a central clearing organization. Consequently, any foreign currency transaction contract through Deutsche Bank will be an obligation of the Foreign Exchange Counterparty (as opposed to an obligation of a clearing house as in the case of an exchange-traded contract) and Client will not be afforded the regulatory and financial protections offered by exchange-traded contracts. Moreover, the prices quoted by Deutsche Bank to Clients for foreign exchange transactions will be determined based on Foreign Exchange Counterparty quotes and are not determined by a competitive auction as on an exchange market. Prices quoted by Deutsche Bank for foreign currency exchange transactions therefore may not be the most competitive prices available. Deutsche Bank will charge transaction fees as specified by Deutsche Bank for foreign currency exchange transactions. The Foreign Exchange Counterparty will try to earn a spread profit on these transactions (differential between the bid and ask prices quoted for various currencies).

I. Other Risks:

There are other risks that relate to trading foreign investment products and trading foreign currencies that cannot be described in detail in this document. Generally, however, foreign securities, options, futures and currency transactions involve exposure to a combination of the following risk factors: market risk, credit risk, settlement risk, liquidity risk, operational risk and legal risk. For example, there can be serious market disruptions if economic or political or other unforeseen events locally or overseas affect the market. In addition to these types of risk there may be other factors such as accounting and tax treatment issues that Clients should consider.

8. Off-exchange transactions in derivatives

It may not always be apparent whether or not a particular derivative is arranged on exchange or in an off-exchange derivative transaction. Your firm must make it clear to you if you are entering into an off-exchange derivative transaction.

While some off-exchange markets are highly liquid, transactions in off-exchange or non transferable derivatives may involve greater risk than investing in on-exchange derivatives because there is no exchange market on which to close out an open position. It may be impossible to liquidate an existing position, to assess the value of the position arising from an off-exchange transaction or to assess the exposure to risk. Bid prices and offer prices need not be quoted, and, even where they are, they will be established by dealers in these instalments and consequently it may be difficult to establish what is a fair price.

9. Foreign markets

Foreign markets will involve different risks from the UK markets. In some cases the risks will be greater. On request, your firm must provide an explanation of the relevant risks and protections (if any) which will operate in any foreign markets, including the extent to which it will accept liability for any default of a foreign firm through whom it deals. The potential for profit or loss from transactions on foreign markets or in foreign denominated contracts will be affected by fluctuations in foreign exchange rates.

10. Contingent liability investment transactions

Contingent liability investment transactions, which are margined, require you to make a series of payments against the purchase price, instead of paying the whole purchase price immediately.

If you trade in contract for differences, you may sustain a total loss of the margin you deposit to establish or maintain a position. If the market moves against you, you may be called upon to pay substantial additional margin at short notice to maintain the position. If you fail to do so within the time required, your position may be liquidated at a loss and you will be responsible for the resulting deficit.

Even if a transaction is not margined, it may still carry an obligation to make further payments in certain circumstances over and above any amount paid when you entered the contract.

Save as specifically provided by the FCA, your firm may only carry out margined or contingent liability transactions with or for you if they are traded on or under the rules of a recognised or designated investment exchange. Contingent liability investment transactions which are not so traded may expose you to substantially greater risks.

11. Limited liability transactions

Before entering into a limited liability transaction, you should obtain from your firm or the firm with whom you are dealing a formal written statement confirming that the extent of your loss liability on each transaction will be limited to an amount agreed by you before you enter into the transaction. The amount you can lose in limited liability transactions will be less than in other margined transactions, which have no predetermined loss limit. Nevertheless, even though the extent of loss will be Subject to the agreed limit, you may sustain the loss in a relatively short time. Your loss may be limited, but the risk of sustaining a total loss to the amount agreed is substantial.

12. Collateral

If you deposit collateral as security with your firm, the way in which it will be treated will vary according to the type of transaction and where it is traded. There could be significant differences in the treatment of your collateral depending on whether you are trading on a recognised or designated investment exchange, with the rules of that exchange (and the associated clearing house) applying, or trading off-exchange. Deposited collateral may lose its identity as your property once dealings on your behalf are undertaken. Even if your dealings should ultimately prove profitable, you may not get back the same assets which you deposited, and may have to accept payment in cash. You should ascertain from your firm how your collateral will be dealt with.

13. Commissions

Before you begin to trade, you should obtain details of all commissions and other charges for which you will be liable. If any charges are not expressed in money terms (but, for example, as a percentage of contract value), you should obtain a clear and written explanation, including appropriate examples, to establish what such charges are likely to mean in specific money terms. In the case of futures, when commission is charged as a percentage, it will normally be as a percentage of the total contract value, and not simply as a percentage of your initial payment.

14. Suspensions of trading

Under certain trading conditions it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This may occur, for example, at times of rapid price movement if the price rises or falls in one trading session to such an extent that under the rules of the relevant exchange trading is suspended or restricted. Placing a stop-loss order will not necessarily limit your losses to the intended amounts, because market conditions may make it impossible to execute such an order at the stipulated price.

15. Clearing house protections

On many exchanges, the performance of a transaction by your firm (or third party with whom he is dealing on your behalf) is guaranteed by the exchange or clearing house. However, this guarantee is unlikely in most circumstances to cover you, the client, and may not protect you if your firm or another party defaults on its obligations to you. On request, your firm must explain any protection provided to you under the clearing guarantee applicable to any on-exchange derivatives in which you are dealing. There is no clearing house for traditional options, nor normally for off-exchange instruments which are not traded under the rules of a recognised or designated investment exchange.

16. Insolvency

Your firm's insolvency or default, or that of any other brokers involved with your transaction, may lead to positions being liquidated or closed out without your consent. In certain circumstances, you may not get back the actual assets which you lodged as collateral and you may have to accept any available payments in cash. On request, your firm must provide an explanation of the extent to which it will accept liability for any insolvency of, or default by, other firms involved with your transactions.
