I've been an Atlanta-based graphic designer and photographer for the past four years. As my passion for design grows, I'm now shifting to UX design with a focus on digital products. My visual design background and my desire to photograph people and places gives me a unique perspective on product design and branding. Combining these skills, my goal is to create collaborative, beautiful, human-centered products and experiences.

Experience

Gloria Creative, Inc. | Graphic Designer

2015 – PRESENT

Creating print-based products, presentation visuals, and branding components for large-scale and global corporations such as Pharmacyclics, Alexion, and Eubio. Handling the visual design of multiple complex projects simultaneously and maintaining good communication with the project lead and clientele. Contributed improvements to existing company workflows.

Education

Designlab

UX ACADEMY | 2018 – 2019

Obtained in-depth knowledge of the user experience design process, took part in weekly group design critiques with fellow students, and worked 1-on-1 with a seasoned design mentor to iterate on my work. Learned about user research, information architecture, interaction design, prototyping, and user testing. Finished with four capstone projects covering ecommerce, responsive web design, branding, working within an existing design system, and an end-to-end iOS app design.
