JAMAL ABDULRAHIM

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF HER ROYAL HIGHNESS PRINCESS SABEEKA BINT IBRAHIM AL KHALIFA WIFE OF THE KING OF BAHRAIN PRESIDENT OF THE SUPREME COUNCIL FOR WOMEN

Since its creation in 2005, Kamel Lazaar Foundation has supported more than 60 projects dedicated to arts and culture in the Maghreb and the Middle East. In 2017, 14 projects from Tunisia, Morocco and Egypt have been selected in the framework of KLF Grants.

Initiated by the Kamel Lazaar Foundation in 2011, Ibraaz is the leading critical forum on visual culture in North Africa and the Middle East. It publishes an annual online platform - consisting of essays, interviews, artists' projects, and platform responses - that focuses on research questions conceived through a network of editorial contributors based in the Middle East and beyond. Our key editorial aim is to publish, alongside work by internationally renowned writers, academics, curators, activists, and filmmakers, emerging writers and artists, and we have published over 400 original contributions since launching.

Launched in 2013, this concept, Jaou, created by Lina Lazaar, the Foundation's Vice-President and a specialist in contemporary Arab art, gathers artists, art collectors, gallery owners, academics, art specialists, among others, around exhibitions, conferences and seminars on culture and contemporary art.

Zukunftslabor (in English: future laboratory) is a concept that first saw the light of day in 2007 in Bremen, Germany. The project - a cooperation between an Orchestra and a school - was initiated by The Deutsche Kammerphilharmonie Bremen. The success of the educational and cultural experience in Bremen encouraged the Zukunftslabor and Kamel Lazaar Foundation to implement the concept in Tunisia through the "Future Lab Tunisia" project.

OUSSAMA RIFAHI | BOARD MEMBER
Arab Fund for Arts & Culture (AFAC), Beirut, Lebanon

The Arab world covers 22 countries: Bahrain, Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Oman, Palestine, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Syria, United Arab Emirates; and Yemen, Algeria, Comoros, Djibouti, Libya, Mauritania, Morocco, Somalia, Sudan, Tunisia.

Despite the rise of international demand for works by Arab artists where they have demonstrated steady growth, there is still a lack of knowledge about them. Freedom and art, repression and art, revolution and culture, education and propaganda, censorship and liberation expression are issues the arab world is exploring.

In the United Arab Emirates, the Sharjah Biennial is firmly on the map as a contemporary showcase, while Art Dubai and Abu Dhabi Art has become a major commercial art fair putting arab artists on the global map. In Bahrain, ArtBAB, Bahrain's international art fair, has been facilitating the development of local Bahraini artists whilst powering their expansion in the global art market through their Bahrain Art Week initiative across Singapore, Paris, London and Moscow.

Oussama is a board member of the Arab Fund for Arts and Culture AFAC and its executive director from 2010 to 2016. Starting his career as a geophysical engineer in West Africa, he moved on to take management roles in Aerospace and Renewable Energies in Canada & Europe. Oussama worked on the development of tourism and culture strategies in Abu Dhabi and led feasibility studies for modern and contemporary museums around the world. Oussama is now based between Cologne, Germany and Beirut, Lebanon. He teaches philanthropy and leadership for non-profits and advises individuals, corporations, governments and private institutions on governance, strategy, communications and fundraising/development. He is involved in the launch and implementation of cultural initiatives in Europe, the MENA region and Africa.

Cultural & Educational District

ADRIAN ELLIS | FOUNDER
AEA Consulting, New York, USA
Chairman, Global Cultural District Network (GCDN)

With the Rise of the Creative (Orange) Economy in cities and countries worldwide, cultural arts has demonstrated a dramatic positive impact on the region's economy. This has led to an increased connection between the arts and economic development in urban centres, which has resulted in the establishment of over 90 arts districts (otherwise known as cultural and educational districts) in the last 20 years. These districts are usually geographically defined areas with an agglomeration of buildings dedicated to the creation and presentation of the arts. They are often home to museums, visual and performing arts spaces, non-profit organizations, and for-profit creative businesses.

The last thirty years have seen an unparalleled rise of new museum buildings and cultural spaces all over the world and the transformational power of its contribution towards the urban realm.

Apart from their purpose of cultural education, these spaces are increasingly understood as powerful instruments and activators of urban regeneration and gentrification; and are capable of infusing new social, cultural and economic possibilities. They play a pivotal role in the constitution of our contemporary city as agents of urban change and magnets for urban growth.

Adrian is the founder of AEA Consulting (1990) – a leading international strategy consultancy working in the cultural sector – and the Chairman of the Global Cultural Districts Network (2013) – a network of some forty cultural districts around the world (gcdn.net). Adrian is a noted speaker and writer on cultural policy and management who has been profiled in the New York Times, Wall Street Journal and Crain's New York Business. He is a past board member of the Getty Leadership Institute, the Association of Performing Arts Presenters, The Kaufman Center and Pathé Pictures. Adrian is a past member of the Governing Council of the National Museums and Galleries of Wales, and the Royal Institute of British Architects' Architecture Centre Committee. He has been a Scholar in Residence at Columbia University, and has taught arts administration for Boston University, New York University, National Arts Strategies and the Clore Fellows Programme in London.

A lifelong jazz fanatic, Adrian served as Executive Director of Jazz at Lincoln Center from 2007-2011 and the Jazz Journalists Association named him Jazz Hero of the Year in 2012. Prior to founding AEA, he served as Executive Director of The Conran Foundation in London, where he planned and managed the creation of the Design Museum. He began his career as a civil servant in the UK Treasury and the Cabinet Office, where he worked on service-wide efficiency reviews and privatisation, and ran the office of the Economic Secretary to the Treasury. Adrian received his B.A. (first class) and M.A. degrees at University College, Oxford, where he served as a College Lecturer in Politics; and completed additional graduate work at London School of Economics.

 Art Select, Manama, Bahrain
 Co-Founder ArtBAB

Kaneka Subberwal has many firsts to her credit and she has built on this pioneering spirit to make her vision her mission and persisted despite all odds to make what seemed like an impossible dream then to put Bahrain in the reckoning as far as art was concerned.

Her initiative is to make Bahrain a focal point for art in the West Asian region and establish a forward thinking platform to promote the growth of art in the country. She takes this many steps forward with BAAB – Bahrain Art Cross Borders – an initiative powered by Tamkeen to take the art of the artists of Bahrain across borders globally.

As co-founder of ArtBahrain she has put Bahrain firmly on the global art map. Her persistence and conviction has paid off and now ArtBahrain is well into its second edition slated for later this year. Her great desire is to be the much needed conduit for local Bahraini artists and the international art community to experience the wealth of culture of the wonderful island nation as she has.

She arrived in Bahrain in 2008 with her company Art Select and set up Bahrain's first art lounge then expanded to art consultation to include artists, collectors, families and corporate offices within the ambit of the arts. She organized a number of art shows across the country – with ArtBahrain being a culmination of sorts, considering the commendable impact it has had in the region, especially since art fairs are a relatively new phenomenon in the region. She hopes to create a common space for galleries and artists from around the globe to connect with collectors and art aficionados, whilst hoping that neighbouring Arab States will be more proactive in investing in and promoting their contemporary artists to the world.

Since 2012, Angelita has also headed the Festivals and Precinct Development Division of the National Heritage Board (NHB), which oversees the development of the vibrant Bras Basah and Bugis (BBB) precinct in the heart of the city. Through various ground-up initiatives and place-making efforts, the precinct is today a centre for education, arts, design and heritage, with a unique mix of Singapore's rich cultures and modern art and architecture. In 2017, Angelita was invited to join the advisory board of the Global Cultural Districts Network (GCDN), an international federation of global centres of arts and culture, of which BBB is a member. SYLVAIN LEVY | CO-FOUNDER
 dslcollection, Paris, France

Initiated at the very beginning of the 21st century by Dominique and Sylvain Levy, dslcollection focuses exclusively on contemporary works. Committed to China, the dslcollection is concerned with artists from an emerging country – or rather re-emerging – on the world scene and redefines the contours of a new world order. Definitely nomadic, the dslcollection refuses to be set in one place and chooses the globalised territory of the digital world.

Born into a screen-based world, today's new generation move in and out of the physical and virtual worlds at ease, believing that each world is "real" to them.

From 2005 (the year of the first video posted on Youtube) we went from a website to a 2D and 3D museum, and in 2012 a museum on Second Life and now augmented reality and virtual reality.

The mosque was built by the late Sheikh Isa ibn Salman Al Khalifa in 1987 and was named after Ahmed Al Fateh, the founder of Bahrain. In 2006, Al-Fateh became the site of the National Library of Bahrain. The title Al-Fateh means the "opener" or the "conquerer" in Arabic. The huge dome built on top of the Al-Fateh Mosque is constructed entirely of fibreglass. Weighing over 60 Megagrams (tonne), the dome is currently the world's largest fibreglass dome. Throughout the mosque are calligraphy writings in a very old type of style called Bahrain.

BAHRAIN FORT

Known as Dilmun in ancient times, Bahrain's rich trading history is reflected in numerous archaeological sites, the most fascinating of which is Qal'at al-Bahrain (also known as the Bahrain Fort), one of Bahrain's oldest military fortifications. This archaeological site is a UNESCO World Heritage site since 2005. The fort is located atop a 17.5 hectare artificial hill that has been built over more than 4000 years of continuous occupation. It is the site of the former capital of Dilmun and one of the most archaeological sites in the Arabian Gulf. The excavations over the past 50 years have revealed residential, public, commercial and military structures that testify to the importance of the site over the centuries. These findings are brought to life by an audioguide available at the site museum.
