Maison de Gastronomie

INVENTOR OF FRENCH TASTE

— Since 1682 —

Discovered by Louis XIV in 1682, DALLOYAU's prestigiously titled "Officiers de Bouche" revitalised and whetted the appetites of French aristocracy.

After the French Revolution, the DALLOYAU family reinvented themselves, founding the first "Maison de Gastronomie" in 1802 in Paris, where they launched innovative concepts, while preserving their expertise.

Since then, DALLOYAU shops and tearooms around the world have been creating moments of pure delight for their customers.

Today, it is your turn to be delighted by our inimitable gastronomic creations, and be fascinated by our imaginative additions to the menu.
