

Wide Receivers

Report Type: Projected FF PPG Sort with PPR

Anderson, Robby *R (+)

Height: 6-3 Weight: 190 Age:* 23.3

WR New York Jets

Projected PPG:	6.2
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	0.0	Receptions Per:	0.0
Rec. Yds Per:	0.0	Targeted Per:	0.0
Rec. TDs Tot:	0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
CIN	@BUF	@KC	SEA	@PIT	@ARI	BAL	@CLE	@MIA	LAR	BYE	NE	IND	@SF	MIA	@NE	BUF

8/21: 6 catches for 131 yards and a TD Week 2 preseason...a nice step forward.

Org. Comments: A master craftsman at wide receiver – an Allen Hurns, Stefon Diggs, Antonio Brown type of technician. I watched him eat #1 draft pick CB Will Jackson (CIN) alive in his matchup with him last year. Anderson is thin-framed, but athletic: 4.36 40-time, 7.07 three-cone, but just 8 reps on the bench press. We think there are star qualities with Anderson, but we also recognize that he has to take a year to beef up his body -- or he'll never hang in the NFL. He picked a terrible roster to join, for FF-purposes. He'll be hard-pressed to make the Jets roster. He'll be a practice squad guy in 2016. However, we'll watch closely to see if he breaks out in training camp...and maybe does make that roster.

Amendola, Danny

Height: 5-11 Weight: 183 Age:* 30.9

WR New England Patriots

Projected PPG:	6.1
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	11.8	Receptions Per:	4.8
Rec. Yds Per:	48.5	Targeted Per:	6.4
Rec. TDs Tot:	3

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
@ARI	MIA	HOU	BUF	@CLE	CIN	@PIT	@BUF	BYE	SEA	@SF	@NYJ	LAR	BAL	@DEN	NYJ	@MIA

This guy. I'm so sick of this guy. He's always a sleeper, or the guy to have in case Julian Edelman gets hurt. Does anything good ever happen with having Danny Amendola for FF purposes...aside from about one game a year? I wouldn't be shocked if the Patriots cut or traded him in the offseason, because they've added plenty of other WRs to the roster this offseason. I have little interest in Amendola for FF 2016+ on the Patriots, or any other team just about.

Meredith, Cameron

Height: 6-3 Weight: 207 Age:* 24.0

WR Chicago Bears

Projected PPG:	6.1
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	4.8	Receptions Per:	2.3
Rec. Yds Per:	25.3	Targeted Per:	3.0
Rec. TDs Tot:	0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
@HOU	PHI	@DAL	DET	@IND	JAC	@GB	MIN	BYE	@TB	@NYG	TEN	SF	@DET	GB	WAS	@MIN

From long shot 2015 UDFA, to actual NFL player...in Week 2 no less, in his rookie season. We told you Meredith was gifted. In another world, Meredith is pushing towards starter status for an NFL team. On the Bears, in 2016, he's maybe their #4 WR for now. He has a future -- Meredith is 6'3" and runs a 4.4+ 40-time with terrific agility and a 39" vertical. He has an NFL starter's athleticism. What his best attribute is: His hands. Meredith has fantastic hands. He makes one-handed catches look easy. He has wonderful concentration and instinct for adjusting to any pass thrown his way. He drifted around unnoticed for 2.5 years in college, and then exploded with 66 catches for 1,061 yards and 9 TDs as a senior. He was seeing decent looks on and off in games all 205, but still kinda hidden. A potential star lurks here, but not sure he'll get a chance in 2016. He might become a shock #3 WR for CHI, and if he does...

Quarterbacks

Report Type: Projected FF PPG Sort with PPR

Oswailer, Brock

Height: 6-7 Weight: 240 Age:* 25.8

QB Houston Texans

Projected PPG:	14.5
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	15.8	Pass Yds Per:	247.9
Rush Yds Per:	8.7	Pass TDs Per:	1.3
Rush TDs Tot:	1	Pass INTs Per:	0.6

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
CHI	KC	@NE	TEN	@MIN	IND	@DEN	DET	BYE	@JAC	@OAK	SD	@GB	@IND	JAC	CIN	@TEN

A very average QB is one now one of the highest paid QBs in the league. Oswailer is another example of that scary trend where young QBs making their debut – high hopes for the new guy, performs decently and gets everyone frenzied, and then starts getting exposed while his numbers fall off the more he plays/the more defenses see of him. We forget that Oswailer started fading off so badly that one of the worst QBs, statistically, in the NFL had to replace him later in the season. Propping up Oswailer's bland numbers last season was the fact that in 4 of his last 6 games, because of the nature of the games he was playing, he threw the ball 39 or more times a game. That's not Oswailer's style. Even with all those throws his numbers were weak. He had one really good game out of eight, and if you remove that one statistical pop game, then the other 7 games average 1.1 TD passes/0.8 INTs with 245.3 yards. I could see with my eyes that Oswailer was struggling with the deep ball, so it was no shock when I looked at his numbers throwing passes that traveled 20+ yards in the air last year – 6-for-27 with 1 TD/3 INT. He's a mediocre QB, and not a great help to the surrounding Texans weapons.

Glennon, Mike

Height: 6-0 Weight: 208 Age:* 27.5

QB Tampa Bay Buccaneers

Projected PPG:	14.4
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	0.0	Pass Yds Per:	0.0
Rush Yds Per:	0.0	Pass TDs Per:	0.0
Rush TDs Tot:	0	Pass INTs Per:	0.0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
@ATL	@ARI	LAR	DEN	@CAR	BYE	@SF	OAK	ATL	CHI	@KC	SEA	@SD	NO	@DAL	@NO	CAR

It doesn't matter what I think here, but for my money Mike Glennon is a better quarterback than Jameis Winston. I'm probably the only person on the planet earth who thinks that; even his own family members don't believe it. The only real way Glennon is going to matter for Fantasy Football ahead, is leaving Tampa Bay (and he's been subject of trade rumors). Glennon is an old-school QB, a downfield worker. He does not fit as well in the style of spread offenses of the new era. He needs to drop back in the pocket, and wing the ball all over the place...a lot medium-deep. There's not that many teams that are running that deep-ball style of passing game. If/when Glennon is traded in the preseason, then we will reevaluate.

Jones, Cardale *R

Height: 6-5 Weight: 253 Age:* 24.0

QB Buffalo Bills

Projected PPG:	14.3
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	0.0	Pass Yds Per:	0.0
Rush Yds Per:	0.0	Pass TDs Per:	0.0
Rush TDs Tot:	0	Pass INTs Per:	0.0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
@BAL	NYJ	ARI	@NE	@LAR	SF	@MIA	NE	@SEA	BYE	@CIN	JAC	@OAK	PIT	CLE	MIA	@NYJ

There was the magical 2014...3rd-string QB Cardale Jones is pressed into action late in the season, and promptly whacks Wisconsin-Alabama-Oregon in his first three starts, and is the best player on the field...Marcus Mariota and Derrick Henry included. Then there was the joke of a 2015: He had to work to become the starter. Wasn't a true fit for Urban Meyer's offense. Stumbled early in the season, and was benched. I'm sure he's thrilled he listened to everyone about going back to school in 2015. I remember the 2014 Cardale Jones -- the guy is one of the most physically gifted QBs on the planet. Size, speed (for his size), strong-arm, and just an instinct for throwing the ball. I think Jones might be a starter in 2017 or 2018, after the Ryan's and GM are all fired after this season. If Jones gets thrust into the lineup because of a Tyrod injury -- don't bet against instant impact. Ben Roethlisberer with foot speed, he might be.

Tight Ends

Report Type: Projected FF PPG Sort with PPR

Travis, Ross

Height: 6-6 Weight: 235 Age:* 23.7

TE Kansas City Chiefs

Projected PPG:	3.0
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	0.0	Receptions Per:	0.0
Rec. Yds Per:	0.0	Targeted Per:	0.0
Rec. TDs Tot:	0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
SD	@HOU	NYJ	@PIT	BYE	@OAK	NO	@IND	JAC	@CAR	TB	@DEN	@ATL	OAK	TEN	DEN	@SD

A developmental TE out of Penn State...a college hoops player turned NFL TE prospect after graduation. He was quiet in 2015, but starting to make waves in 2016 training camp -- he has an intriguing TE/WR hybrid size. He has 4.6-4.7(?) speed with agility. He has decent hands. Watching him in Week 1 of the preseason, he looked pretty good...good enough that he ran with the first team for a few snaps. I don't think he's beating out Travis Kelce or anything, but he might push for some specialty touches -- in the red zone, etc.

Sterling, Neal

Height: 6-4 Weight: 235 Age:* 24.7

TE Jacksonville Jaguars

Projected PPG:	2.9
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	0.0	Receptions Per:	0.0
Rec. Yds Per:	0.0	Targeted Per:	0.0
Rec. TDs Tot:	0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
GB	@SD	BAL	IND	BYE	@CHI	OAK	@TEN	@KC	HOU	@DET	@BUF	DEN	MIN	@HOU	TEN	@IND

I figured this might be coming -- Sterling (a 7th round pick in 2015) is transitioning to tight end. He's 6'3"+/238-pounds and has 4.6+ speed with 7+ three-cone. He's a below-average athlete for a WR prospect, but above-average for a TE. He could add 5-10 pounds of muscle and be an interesting TE/WR hybrid with his long arms/big catching radius. Scouting his tape at Monmouth, and watching his work in the 2015 NFL preseason -- he really catches the ball nicely. There is a receiver here, whether at WR or TE. I'm more intrigued by the TE possibilities. Of course, he's not bumping Julius Thomas, so we have to wait two more years or be ready to pounce on a JT injury.

McEvoy, Tanner *R

Height: 6-6 Weight: 230 Age:* 23.6

TE Seattle Seahawks

Projected PPG:	2.8
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR:	0.0	Receptions Per:	0.0
Rec. Yds Per:	0.0	Targeted Per:	0.0
Rec. TDs Tot:	0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
MIA	@LAR	SF	@NYJ	BYE	ATL	@ARI	@NO	BUF	@NE	PHI	@TB	CAR	@GB	LAR	ARI	@SF

McEvoy went to Wisconsin as a QB prospect...and wound up playing quarterback, safety, wide receiver and tight end. In 2014, he rushed for six TDs in spot duty as a wildcat-ish QB. He played WR-TE-S as a senior in 2015. He picked off six passes as a safety, in his convert season...a giant 6'6" safety. Intriguing prospect that flew under my radar because he didn't register full numbers at his Pro Day, and played several positions, mastering none...on paper. Stepping back from it...the guy's just a great athlete. He seems to adapt to anything. In his first preseason game, McEvoy caught two huge passes in a last second win -- including a Hail Mary at the buzzer. He's got size and skills...watch for him the rest of preseason. Seattle may have to cut him, and pray someone else doesn't swoop in. As a WR, he's interesting. As a hybrid TE/WR...which he might be opening day Jimmy Graham goes on IR...he could be very interesting.

Running Backs

Report Type: Projected FF PPG Sort with PPR

Johnson, David

Height: 6-1 Weight: 224 Age:* 24.7

RB Arizona Cardinals
Projected PPG:	20.9
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR: 13.8	Receptions Per: 2.2
Rush Yds Per: 37.1	Rec. Yds Per: 28.2
Rush TDs Tot: 8	Targeted Per: 3.3
Rec. TDs Tot: 4

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
NE	TB	@BUF	LAR	@SF	NYJ	SEA	@CAR	BYE	SF	@MIN	@ATL	WAS	@MIA	NO	@SEA	@LAR

I'll take a victory lap here, again. I can't tell you how many scouts and football analysts who mocked me last year for claiming David Johnson was in the argument as a top 3 best running back talents in the 2016 NFL Draft class, arguably the #1, and that he was far superior to Melvin Gordon, among others. Who's laughing now? The sky is the limit here, and schedule is meaningless. David Johnson is a running back for the new millennium - a guy built like the Incredible Hulk with high-end speed, and the hands and pass game awareness of a first round draft pick wide receiver. He has it all. In PPR leagues, I'm not sure there is a better running back or player on this planet for 2016. It's possible Johnson is a member of the 1,000+ yard club in both rushing and receiving and 2016. In Week 12, DJ took over the main role, and averaged 17.5 FF PPG (22.0 PPR) in seven games (incl. playoffs). He could be off the charts for FF 2016. He's worth his top 5 overall ADP.

Gurley, Todd

Height: 6-1 Weight: 230 Age:* 22.1

RB Los Angeles Rams
Projected PPG:	18.1
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR: 16.1	Receptions Per: 1.7
Rush Yds Per: 88.5	Rec. Yds Per: 14.4
Rush TDs Tot: 10	Targeted Per: 2.1
Rec. TDs Tot: 0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
@SF	SEA	@TB	@ARI	BUF	@DET	NYG	BYE	CAR	@NYJ	MIA	@NO	@NE	ATL	@SEA	SF	ARI

I don't think anyone disputes that Todd Gurley, if healthy, will be among the top FF scorers in 2016, and for years ahead. He's a mega talent. The only thing holding him back from absolutely being considered the hands-down top guy in FF is the surrounding cast with the Rams. Starting with the head coach, who only dealt him five catches in his final six games last year. A coach who will design a very stuffy offense that could bottle up Gurley often. Gurley hit the scene with four straight 100+ yard rushing efforts in his main carry role debut last year, and then he flopped to the finish with just one more 100+ your game over his next/final eight appearances...and it wasn't for a lack of touches either. Gurley is the center of the Rams' offense no matter what happens, and that's always going to be great for FF purposes, but arguing whether he can be the single-best FF guy, I tend to bet against it just because of Jeff Fisher and the weak offensive talent around him. I'll take Todd Gurley in a heartbeat, but I think I'd rather have David Johnson or Le'Veon Bell ahead of him for FF 2016, especially in PPR.

Bell, Le'Veon (3g Susp)

Height: 6-1 Weight: 244 Age:* 24.1

RB Pittsburgh Steelers
Projected PPG:	16.3
Previous Year Stats
FF PPG PPR: 20.2	Receptions Per: 4.4
Rush Yds Per: 101.1	Rec. Yds Per: 24.7
Rush TDs Tot: 3	Targeted Per: 4.7
Rec. TDs Tot: 0

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
@WAS	CIN	@PHI	KC	NYJ	@MIA	NE	BYE	@BAL	DAL	@CLE	@IND	NYG	@BUF	@CIN	BAL	CLE

8/19: Suspension officially 3 games.
 7/22: Likely susp. Coming for 4 games.
 If you take the 5.5 games that Bell played in 2015, and extrapolated out to a full 16-games, he would've posted 1,600+ yards rushing and 400 yards receiving... 2,000+ yards total. He also would've caught 75+ passes, and scored about 9 TDs. If he's healthy, I don't know how he wouldn't be the top fantasy RB in a PPR league. He's not a massive TD producer for non-PPR, but he's a stud and everything else. The risk with Bell for FF is the fear of a reoccurrence of his injuries...and you get that with about any top RB. Bell is a superstar, but with a top 5 overall pick...I'll take a stud WR over a stud RB any time. Bell's injuries are not 'good ones', and are starting to frighten me.