

MICHAEL JONES

A Gypsy Sings of the '89 Massacre

“The leaves were green,” his song begins,
“when the students gathered in Timisoara.”
In fact, they came in bare December.

As rough and strong as rope, his voice gathers them with the dead of other songs that begin the same way, rising from singing's soil of leaves and slaughter.