

FRAMEWORK SUMMIT

Framework Summit Code of Conduct

We desire a community where ALL feel welcome. A requirement for all Framework Summit participants is that you adhere to this goal, and abide by the guidance in this document.

To help all feel welcome and safe, we ask you to approach each interaction with your fellow community members as an opportunity to help each other grow. Your words and silence, your actions and inactions. Each of these can affect the way those around you will feel. With that in mind, it is best to take a considerate and empathetic approach with all those you meet in the Framework Summit community.

Building a place that's welcoming to all is not easy. It requires each of us (organizers, speakers, sponsors and attendees) to form a partnership, with the same goals and desires in mind. Each participant is expected to uphold this code of conduct. Whether you are inside the event hall, at one an after hours event, away from the event with other community members, or interacting with the community throughout the year, the expectation of conduct is the same.

We've established a safe and confidential way for any participant to report a violation of this code of conduct. If you experience or see something that goes against these values, please reach out to us. We will get involved and help everyone feel comfortable again.

How to report a violation : If you need to report a violation of the code of conduct, please reach out in one of the following three ways:

- Find a member of the conference staff, and tell them "I need to report a Code of Conduct violation." They will bring you to a safe place where the appropriate people will get involved.
- Send an email to frameworksummit@gmail.com, and describe the violation. Please provide as much info as you feel comfortable providing.
- Call our dedicated number: 8015744541

Violations:

Avoid using language that can be offensive. This includes topics that can make others feel threatened and/or uncomfortable. Insensitivity and/or jokes towards the following are violations of the code of conduct: gender, gender identity and expression, sexual orientation, disability, physical appearance, body size/shape, race, religion, age.

Avoid arguments about technological choices. Respect others opinions on technology, platform, framework, etc. Disparaging comments about technologies can make others who value those technologies feel unwelcome.

Avoid topics and issues that are polarizing. These topics will very likely make others uncomfortable.

Avoid trying to further romantic interests. Unwanted verbal advances or suggestive and flirtatious physical contact are the most certain ways to make someone feel threatened, uncomfortable and/or harassed.

Avoid dishonesty and bullying. Mean people are not welcome in this community.

We take violations very seriously. Violations may result in being removed from the conference and the Framework Summit community. This is a living document, and will change as the community needs it to.

HOW WE HANDLE CONDUCT VIOLATIONS

WHO GETS INVOLVED?

We have put together a committee of organizers, speakers, sponsors, and attendees. This committee will be called upon to consider each reported violation.

INITIAL ACTIONS

The following is what you can expect from the committee when a violation is reported:

- We will find a private place to talk.
- We will ask who the offending party was, what was said or done, who else was involved (if any), and the name of any witnesses (if any), as well as when and where the incident took place. We may have additional follow up questions, depending on the situation.

FOLLOW UP

Once we have the initial report, the committee will talk about the next steps. Depending on the severity of the violation, the committee may report the incident directly to the police. If the committee is reasonably certain that the police are not required, the following will happen:

- We will find the offender(s), let them know that we have received a complaint, and hear their side of the story.

- We will then immediately meet as a committee to decide the response, or if we need to talk to additional parties we will, after which we will then decide the response.
- Carry out our response.
- We may then address the community, letting them know that something happened, it violated our code of conduct, and we took care of it.
