

Junior Technical Account Manager wanted in Hamburg!

Who we are

Semasio is a Unified Targeting provider that enables programmatic advertising professionals to reach their target audience by seamlessly combining Audience and Contextual targeting. Our clients are leading global media agencies, brands and publishers, and we operate globally with offices in Germany, Denmark, Portugal and USA.

What we're looking for

We're looking for someone who would love to:

- Work as a Technical Account Manager for our EMEA clients
- Interact closely with our client-facing teams and our Senior Technical Account Manager
- Assist in technical troubleshooting by using our ticketing system
- Help our clients build individual custom segments for their programmatic campaigns
- Use and maintain Semasio's SaaS platform and thereby help to improve the platform performance
- Compile and analyse reports that improve our client business

You're a great fit if you

- Have an affinity for complex technical processes and tools
- Offer a hands-on mentality and have the eagerness to understand new topics
- Ideally, have gained first experiences in data-driven marketing or programmatic advertising
- Speak and write German and English fluently
- Have a university degree (or similar)

What we offer

- Great and flexible working conditions
- Competitive salary with lots of benefits
- Chance to bring your own ideas to life
- Friendly and fun international team
- Work right in the center of Hamburg (close to public transport)
- And all the other usual things – work from home, free snacks, team activities, and more!

Like what you've read? Email us at jobs@semasio.com