

From our Family Engagement Coordinator

JENNY HALL

“ Family engagement is not a single event. It is a shared responsibility in which regular two-way communication insures that the student is on track to meet grade-level requirements.”

From our School Director

JODI RAMOS

Spring is beginning to arrive and so is spring fever. Our kids are wanting to get out and play in the fresh air more than ever, even when other things need to get done inside. Help your child describe these emotions. For example, “You look really anxious to get outside” or “Your eyes are looking down, you look really upset that we can’t go outside right now.” When kids can label their feelings, they can learn how to manage them even better.

From our Executive Director

DENISE SMITH

Children are like little scientists. They are naturally curious! The more curious the child, the more likely he or she may be to perform better in school -- Pediatric Research. Regardless of lower-income levels, children who were characterized as curious performed similarly on math and reading assessments as children from higher income families.
