

Testimonials

Today your associate arrived at my house 10 minutes early. She came with a smile and all the tools to help us get rid of the infestation I had with my children. I am so pleased to say that your technician was so patient and nit picking (no pun intended) that my daughter who is shy about the situation was very comfortable when she approached her and cared for her. She spent plenty of time to make sure that all or most of the problem is taken care of. I could not thank you guys enough. I had gone over my head with this case and was at my ends. My son was excited to see all the bugs washed down the sink. (He loves science).

Thank you again,
S.S., Sherman Oaks, CA

P.S. I will highly recommend your services to anyone.

Thank you so much. The gal you sent was fantastic! She was very thorough and I feel that this problem is finally behind us. And let me just add that I feel this is such an incredible service you are providing.... and I will tell all the moms I know about the Hair Whisperers.
Thank you for giving me peace of mind!

Many blessings,
Lori C., Los Angeles, CA

How Do I Prevent Reinfestation?

- Don't share brushes!
- Do not share beds, pillows, or hats.
- Girls should wear their hair in a braid, wrapped in a bun and sprayed with hairspray.
- To prevent reinfestation, launder linens, towels and hats.
- Vacuum rugs and sweep floors.
- Stow stuffed animals in a sealed bag for 2 weeks.
- Soak combs, brushes, clips and accessories in boiling water for 30 minutes, or put in a sealed bag for two weeks.
- Avoid sharing combs, brushes, and beds with infected people.
- Mayonnaise or Cetaphil may help the process of removal. Apply and sleep in a shower cap, then wash.
- Lice are contracted mainly through head to head contact.

Lice Lowdown

Nits under four days old have no nervous system so they cannot be killed by shampoo and must be manually removed.

Some lice are resistant to over the counter permethrin-based treatments.

Nits, or lice eggs, are yellowish-white, oval shaped eggs that are glued to the hair shaft at an angle.

Nits must be laid by live lice.

Nits take 7-10 days to hatch, and another 7-10 days to lay their own eggs.

Lice are clear when hatched and then develop a reddish brown color after feeding.

A female louse can lay up to 100 eggs in a month.

Lice can only live off the human head for 24-48 hours.

No shampoo can get rid of lice with one treatment. Eggs under 4 days old can't be killed.

No

How It Works

Prices vary depending on area.

Manual removal of nits is essential to prevent reinfestation.

If more than 5 eggs are found, follow up appointment is needed.

The Hair Whisperers offers one, two and three hour appointments.

All About Amy

The Hair Whisperers is the brain child of Amy Goldreyer, whose 6 year old son got lice in kindergarten. Her personal experiences ridding her son of the creatures was frustrating and agonizingly slow. Realizing how time consuming the process was, she thought of the many working moms she knew who would not have the time to deal with this problem, and the Hair Whisperers was born.
