How did we work together?
Nord Anglia is one the largest private school operators in the world. This school, in Dubai, wanted a workshop on the fundamentals of critical thinking. Delivered in a twilight session, we had to make sure that it was both practical and engaging. Our mission of getting them really thinking resonated with the 130+ teachers. We hope to be back soon.

• Research digests of the current thinking around cognition.
• Practical examples of how to ‘make it happen’ in time-poor lessons.
• Opportunities to plan new ideas within departments.

What does this look like?

Practical activities to make the process of thinking tangible.

Collaborative planning time with department colleagues.

Dedicated time to reflect on how to engage students in critical thinking.
