

Staff Meeting

A twilight briefing session

Online | In-person
Approximately 1 - 1.5 hours

Interested in Cognition

Who are the sessions for?

If your school is looking at placing a greater emphasis on cognition but are unsure where to start, these sessions are for you. In an interactive staff meeting, your colleagues will get a chance to 'try out' new classroom approaches and learn about the current thinking surrounding cognition. This is an opportunity to understand both the principals and applications of the various classroom concepts.

Why should we book a staff meeting?

- An engaging presentation on a key theme for your staff
- Overviews of the current research
- An opportunity to ask questions and understand the relevance of key cognitive ideas
- Freedom to explore new approaches (in a friendly environment)

What will my staff get out of the session?

Your colleagues will be given an over-arching picture of the current cognition landscape and the implications this might have for their classrooms. The meetings are a great starting point for further discussion.

Explore evidence-informed ideas

Cognition themes

- Metacognition
- Critical thinking
- Literacy
- Schemas and memory
- Creativity

Curriculum Applications

- Reading comprehension
- Writing
- Knowledge-rich curriculum
- Communication
- Engagement

Develop new perspectives