

About Us

Nurish.Me was started by three like-minded entrepreneurs and scientists who aspire to improve people's health through dietary supplements that actually work. We go above and beyond to deliver what we promise and to help our customers achieve extraordinary wellness. Most of all, we value our customers and their health, which is why we invest so much in product integrity. The culmination of our work is a targeted catalog of efficacious and safe products that are based on studies that have been published in peer-reviewed journals. Thus, Nurish.Me's assurance is that we will only sell products that undergo a rigorous scientific process; a business model that is unique and mostly unequalled in the dietary supplement industry in all facets of sales, marketing, promotion, and product distribution.

Our Vision

What you feel is what you get. Our vision is to deliver dietary supplements that not only work, but also exceed or match the quality standards of pharmaceuticals.

Our Mission

The overarching mission of Nurish.Me is to lead a necessary paradigm shift in the dietary supplement industry by only marketing products that have been clinically tested, are formulated with proprietary technology to achieve the highest levels of efficacy, and provide the best value. Our company will improve the reputation of the industry and the health of our customers with a science-driven educational approach that is easy to understand, yet critical to raising awareness about the value of high-quality dietary supplements.

Our Promise

We promise to be as passionate about our business as you are about your health. We are committed to raising industry standards by discovering new ways to improve all aspects of our products. We win through teamwork, responsibility, transparency, and accountability, and we believe in sharing the benefits of our successes.

The principal structure and function phytonutrient in CoreCumin™ is curcumin. Curcumin is the most powerful bioactive compound in turmeric (Curcuma longa). With hundreds of clinical trials and thousands of peer-reviewed scientific research papers, curcumin is one of the most researched phytonutrients. Clinical studies in humans have shown improvements in mood and immune function, including reduction of mild, non-chronic inflammation.*
