GC AMERICA SUPPORTS INITIATIVE TO IMPROVE ORAL HEALTH AMONG CHILDREN IN CHICAGO AND BEYOND

(Charlotte, NC, May 8, 2018) In Chicago 63% of third graders have cavities and more than half go untreated. Thanks to a collaboration between GC America and America's ToothFairy: National Children's Health Foundation (NCOHF), caregivers will be provided with the basic tools for home oral care and education. GC America's $100,000 philanthropic investment as Title Sponsor for the 2018 Chicago Smiles Initiative will help support operational expenses and efforts to overcome significant barriers faced by under-served families in Chicago and surrounding areas with an emphasis on the education of grandparents, parents and other adult caregivers.

Under-served families face tremendous obstacles in accessing dental care, which include low oral health literacy, financial hardship, lack of transportation, limited clinic hours, difficulty identifying dental providers who can provide preventive and follow up care, and a low number of providers. Serving thousands of families, the Chicago Smiles Initiative will help support service delivery, educate caregivers, and reinforce the importance of oral health for the entire family.

"We are focused on access to care, prevention and education," said Jill Malmgren, Executive Director of NCOHF. "We are very grateful for GC America's continued support and value their partnership in improving children's oral health outcomes."

"GC America has already worked with Chicago-area schools to support oral health educational programming for students," said Steve Fletcher, CEO of GC America and NCOHF Board member. "We are excited to work with America's ToothFairy to make sure families in Chicago and beyond have the tools and information to reinforce those lessons at home."
