Hello Jack,

I'm getting lots of emails from all of you with many great questions about my new handpan course.

I thought it would be helpful to list them all in this email in case you're also asking yourself the same questions.

Before though, let me give you today's free teaching video from the "Coordination & independence" section, so that you can get a taste of my handpan learning method.

Here then are the 8 most frequently asked questions about my course:

• Question #1: "If I don't own a handpan, but have a "tongue drum", or a "hapi-drum" or a "tank drum", is this course still for me?"

Yes, if your instrument has a note in the center (a ding)! You should be able to follow along fine!

• Question #2: "Is it a problem if I have an instrument with 7 notes?"

Not at all! It doesn't matter how many notes you have around your central ding. This course is great for you too!

• Question #3: "I have a RAV, or I have a spacedrum, is this course still for me?"

Yes of course! Go for it!

• Question #4: "Are VAT (taxes) included in your prices?"

Good question. Normally the price you see is the price you pay. If it isn't, tell. For most countries I've managed to get out of VAT. :-)

• Question #5: "Is your course also for intermediate players?"

Totally! What I consider as "intermediate" are people who got their handpan in the last 3 years. They already know some good stuff and patterns but still they feel they would need to review foundations and learn new rhythms and understand how to apply a rhythm to the melodies. This course is great for players that feel stuck in their playing because of a lack of coordinations and rhythm ideas.

• Question #6: "I am on a handpan-maker waiting-list and should receive my instrument soon, can I buy the course now? Are your offers time-limited?"

Yes, it's a good idea to buy now since I'm offering a great discount and many neat bonus content to all who signs up before the deadline runs out:

If you sign up today you get a life-long access to the course!

• Question #7: "I am left handed! Is your course adapted to me? If not, can I still learn from the course?"

Good question: It's not perfect for the left-handed. BUT... there is a way to work around this problem. From the very beginning you can decide that Red is Left and Blue is Right (right now it's the contrary) so that you can read all the notations. But still my movements on the video are played as a right-handed. So following my movements rather than the notations line will be disturbing to you.

And also if I am ever counting out loud "right and left and left and right" for example, you'll have to do the contrary.

SO... I would say it's not perfect. But still you'll learn a lot of new patterns and good ideas for your playing. Please contact me if you are left-handed and I'll try to find an arrangement.

• Question #8: "What if I ever have a question about one exercise?"

Below each exercise every user has the possibility to ask questions. I take time everyday to answer you. Everyone can post and exchange it's really user-friendly. See you there!

If you have other questions, please feel free to reply to this email and I'll try to answer you quickly.
