Lyceum Bicentennial Ramble Series

Lyceum—(li-se-am), a place for public lectures, debates, classes, concerts and entertainment.

Join the Alabama Trust for Historic Preservation for the 2017 season of the Preservation Lyceum Series, a set of weekend programs for preservation-minded individuals who want to know more about, and visit, historic preservation projects in Alabama.

The 19th century Lyceum Movement that flourished in America provided hundreds of informal gatherings for the purpose of improving the social and intellectual landscape of society. Characterized by lectures and public discourse on a variety of topics and musical and theatrical performances in a retreat environment, lyceums peaked during the Antebellum Era. With the exception of the New York Great Lake’s Chautauqua Institute, best known for the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra, few remnants of this vibrant phenomenon remain on the national scene.

Drawing from the past, the Alabama Trust for Historic Preservation offers the Preservation Lyceum series to travel the highways, byways and crossroads of Alabama exploring, experiencing and engaging in preservation.

1:30-1:45
LIVE OAK LANDING: TENSAW RIVER
8700 Live Oak Road, Stockton

The story of Stockton and North Baldwin begins with the Tensaw River. Along its banks is the largest site of the Mississippian Indian culture on the central Gulf Coast. (This site is 1 1/2 miles from present “downtown” Stockton in the Delta but accessible only by boat.) It is a National Historic Landmark. This area was the center of Mississippian culture from 1250 to 1550 CE. Eighteen platform mounds (tallest being 45 ft.) remain in the Delta. One smaller mound, hidden from view, is located at Live Oak Landing. Next came the Taensa Indians with the French in 1714 CE. They settled along the river in present day Stockton. It is from the Taensa Indians the river and the area first acquired the name “Tensa Settlement.” This name included all of North Baldwin. The Taensa left Stockton with the French around 1763. The English and Creek Indians then moved into their abandoned area. By 1771 Major Robert Farmar (retired British commander of Mobile) had built his plantation “Farm Hill” in Stockton on the Taensa site and the area was renamed “Tensaw Bluff” or “Farmar’s Bluff” as it was one of the few high areas on the Tensaw River. His plantation quickly became a meeting place for traders and travelers. In 1775, he hosted William Bartram, the renowned American naturalist and botanist, at his home.

The Tensaw River is part of the 200-mile long Bartram Canoe Trail and it is an Alabama Scenic River Trail. The Tensaw River was the gateway and the 18th -19th century freeway into Stockton and North Baldwin. Take 5 minutes to walk on one of the piers and appreciate the beauty of the river and Delta. It is the eastern boundary of the Mobile-Tensaw River Delta, the second largest river delta in America, and one of the most biologically diverse spots in North America. The Delta is referred to as “America’s Amazon” because of its rich diversity. (To view a documentary about the Delta, Google America’s Amazon: The Mobile-Tensaw Delta)

The park is dedicated to preserving the county’s rich heritage and leaving historical legacy for the future generations. Historic buildings from Baldwin County have been moved to the park. STOCKTON HERITAGE MUSEUM
52915 AL Hwy. 59, Stockton
A grass roots effort to save and restore “Jobby’s Store,” one of the last remaining 19th century retail buildings in North Baldwin, began seven years ago. This general store operated from 1894 to 1971. It also served as the Stockton Post Office from 1894 to 1918. The building was vacant until 1975 when the Stockton Five Arts Club got permission from the Crosby family to refurbish the old structure. It then assumed the name of the “Stockton Town Hall.” The Stockton Civic Club used the building until they built a new civic center. The building has been renovated through donations, grants, and money raised from Stockton Sawmill Days, an annual event to celebrate Stockton as the site of the first sawmill in Alabama in 1811. The Stockton Heritage Association opened the museum in 2015. It is the only museum in North Baldwin. Please enjoy the exhibits and tour the restored building. (Restrooms available)

3:40-4:20
VAUGHAN-BRYANT-MORRIS FARM (1851)
10350 Bryant Landing Road (Co. Rd. 21 South), Stockton
This 19th century farm started as a one-room house with a barn. Interestingly the barn was used as a livery during the Civil War when Union soldiers passed through the area. A smokehouse was added in 1890 and in 1911 the main house was added with a detached pantry at a cost of $500. The farm today has been restored to its former, simple beauty by Glenda and William Morris. It is the oldest, extant, working farm in Baldwin County and is one of the oldest in the State of Alabama. Tour the working, restored 1851 barn located behind the main house.

4:30-5:00
KITCHEN-McMILLIAN-SMITH HOUSE (1844)
Hixon Lane, Stockton
This home was built by William Kitchen and his wife Narcissa Watson. The home and surrounding out buildings served as a stop for the stagecoach line started by Kitchen in the mid 1800s. It is believed to be Alabama’s only remaining intact stagecoach stop. The main house was built in 1844 using wooden pegs and hand-planed lumber. The original structure was comprised of four rooms with a porch that extended most of the way around the house. It has a central fireplace with a hearth opening into each of the four rooms. All of the outbuildings on the property date to the construction of the main house. There is a mail dispatch, blacksmith shop, meat house, barn, carriage house, and commissary located on the property. A race track was once located on the property and people came from miles around to participate and watch the excitement. The commissary was turned into a dwelling in later years. A shed room was added on the right corner of the porch of the main house for the driver of the stagecoach to sleep. This room was also used by a circuit riding preacher when he visited the community. Recent renovation efforts have stabilized the building. Enjoy the beautiful live oaks and historic buildings, but be careful as this is a work in progress.
5:00-5:45
McMILLIAN-McINNIS-CONNER HOME (1926)
53120 State Hwy. 59, Stockton

Visit two homes at this site. Maewood was built by Annie Mae & John McMillan on property purchased from Captain Clarence Tompkins. Captain Tompkins was a steamboat captain who made daily runs from Mobile to Stockton. His 19th century home is located down the hill behind the McMillan home. It is believed to have been a “dog trot” house, but changes were made in 1926 when it was converted to living quarters for servants. It now serves as the guest house. A three-year, total renovation and addition to Maewood was completed in 2015. Great effort was made to preserve the original detail of the home and for the addition to be true to the original design aesthetics. The home was designed by prominent Mobile architect John Platt Roberts. He designed many well-known commercial buildings in Mobile (Waterman Building, L & N Train Terminal, and Mobile Infirmary). This was one of his earlier commissions and his only known residence in Baldwin County. Lea Verneuille of Walcott, Adams, & Verneuille in Fairhope, Alabama designed the addition. (Restrooms available)

6:00
CLOSING DINNER: STAGECOACH CAFE’
52860 State Hwy. 59, Stockton

This restaurant put Stockton on the map. Visitors never know who they will see—politicians, travelers, or locals. Even Harper Lee enjoyed eating here incognito. The Stagecoach’s famous fried chicken is on the “100 Things You Should Eat Before You Die” list for Alabama. (The restaurant is located on the site of a stagecoach stop, which was torn down in the 20th century.)
Join us on Friday, Sept. 22, at 4:30 pm with a tour of the Poarch Creek Indian Museum on the reservation near Atmore, then on to a reception hosted by The Poarch Creek Tribe and Goodwyn, Mills and Caywood Engineering Firm.
