

Dear All

I thought you might like to see an article from the BBC on Christian Li, the young Australian violinist who was at the Gower Festival last year which is on their site today. It is a really encouraging article.

If you use the link below it should take you to the article. My husband, David, had just heard it when I received an email from Catherine, one of the GF Friends, giving me the link as well. So thank you to both of them for drawing it to my attention!

I hope you are all able to enjoy the current sunny weather and hope that you won't feel too deprived next week at what would have been the beginning of this year's festival. We hope that next year will be better year for music!
