

Yesterday's concert at St Paul's was again fantastic. What a Festival we are having - and we still have four concerts to go!

This evening we have another visit to St Paul's, Sketty, to hear Alim Beisembayev. There are tickets still available either through our website, through the Grand Theatre box office or on the door from about 7pm.

Tomorrow evening we have our first concert by the Elias Quartet alongside Robert Plane (clarinet). This concert will be held at St Rhidian and St Illtyd's church, Llanrhidian SA3 1ER at 7.30pm.

They will be performing pieces by Schubert, Bliss and Brahms.

There are some tickets still available via our website www.gowerfestival.org, through the Grand Theatre box office or on the church door from around 7.00pm.

Parking is very restricted near the church but we will be running a shuttlebus service, both before and after the concert from the Dunn's camping site - Cilibion Park Farm Camp Site, Llanrhidian SA3 1ED which is near Heron Garage on the Llanrhidian to Reynoldston road. It will be well signposted. Please allow time to park and to use the shuttle bus so that you will not be late for the start of the concert. We are very grateful to Stephen and Beryl Dunn for once again allowing us to use their site.

Toilet facilities will be provided by a portaloo, which is usually sited towards the rear of the church at the gate end. Please ask if you can't find it.

Cheers will be providing their usual beverages both before the concert and during the interval.

I couldn't resist today's 'Smile' as my grandson (aged 6 and a budding violinist) thought it was hilarious - I hope you enjoy it too!

P.S. Gordon has asked me to say that tomorrow might be your only chance to hear the Elias Quartet at this festival as Friday's concert in Port Eynon is sold out! (unless there are any returns on the day).
