Idea #1: Give me your feedback	Idea #2: Give me your feedback	Idea #3: Give me your feedback	Idea #4: Give me your feedback	Idea #5: Give me your feedback	Idea #6: Give me your feedback
this one is nice but the font is very bold.	this one looks off, the font is not the right font for this type of masthead.	I like this one a lot also.	this one is nice .	the font on the Brookings is too much it pulls too much attention.	this one also is very nice for the newspaper, it has great colors and titles.
I like the design of the text but I don't like how the buoy blends with the water.	I quite like the cartoon style. I just think the stars are a little much.	I don't really like the color of the text or buoy	I prefer the buoy on the other side but I like the mismatching color for the text.	I quite like the text style for this but I think the buoy needs to be in there otherwise it looks plain.	I don't particularly like this one because the text style doesn't really fit and the light circle thing looks a little weird. The one thing I do like is the motto underneath.
this one is definetely 3rd best	I like this one so its 2nd best	This is my favorite its really nice	This one is really nice too	No.	No not at all dont do this.
this one looks nice but is kind of plain	this one is nice but is too thin so it does not look as good as it could	this one is really dope and has more color so it makes it pop more	i think this one is nice i looks cool	this one is my favorite i really like the font choice and it makes it look more official n is appealing to the eye	this one looks nice because the way the light looks
The letters and design are big and blocky; perfect for simplicity without attention being focused on one aspect more than another.	The buoy is standout-ish because of how skinny the lines holding up the siren is. The stars in the O's in Brookings don't make sense, especially when there is an open O in buoy. It's great for grabbing the attention of children though.	The star is still distracting as there are no other letters with stars. The buoy adds a nice color contrast between the Navy blue and light colored water, making it a top contender.	It looks sleek, modern, and professional; however, if the newspaper or whatever feels sloppy in structure or wording and not as professional as the logo, it might be a waste of a perfectly fine logo.	If the people like the Washington Post, they might like this. It's not good or bad, but un-originality hinders this photo due to the signature Washington Post font.	For high school standards, this logo is fine as it looks student-ran. The buoy would benefit from being a different color than Navy Blue; maybe along the lines of The Bruins BUOY color if no other shades of blue work, or maybe along the colors like idea #3. But if there was a student-ran newspaper with blurbs of events going around, this would also be a fine contender.
this one feels like it's missing something	the aesthetic is creative	I like the colorfulness	I like the design of the buoy on this masthead	maybe add a little buoy on the Y	I like the motto it provides more context of what the paper is
Feels way too bland.	Better!	Colourful!	Same problem as the first, feels too bland	Reminds me of medieval times.	Good use of yellow!!
I like this one quite a bit, it has a good use of two different shades of blue and is a pretty basic and clean design.	This one seems a bit too "kid-ish", more of a logo or design that you'd see on back to school advertisements on TV or in stores.	I like the use of colors in this image, although I prefer the first one still as it's just more simple.	This one I also like a lot, it has a bit more detail than the first one but keeps the same color-scheme and overall looks quite smooth.	Personally, I'm not a fan of the font on the word 'Brookings', a lot of newspapers already use this type of masthead, and it's a bit more difficult to read, especially for people who may have Dyslexia.	Not a huge fan of the name, 'Brookings Buoy' seems to slide off the tongue easier than 'The Bruins Buoy". The light on top of the buoy stands out a bit too much, and in my opinion ruins the simple logo.
pretty bland but i like the design overall	i dont like the font	this is the best one	the y stops a bit after the wave does and its bugging me	the first font is bad	i like the lighting from the buoy its good but it is also plain	the font is cool but i don't think it will draw attention to people	i like it but to me it feels like the red on the buoy is throwing everything off	in my opinion it is too plain	its cool but it just seems so typical to use the font that's on the "brookings"	its cool but too plain
				Too plain
too basic	too childish	basic	basic	not bad	basic
					There is a reason I love this one but I can not describe it.
Nice! Clean	A little elementary	Nice but the additional colors are a little distracting.	LOVE this! Holds the space well. Clean, clear.	Traditional
Great! Nice bold text, takes itself seriously but not too seriously.	A little silly, might not appear to the most serious of students. Kids might think the buoy looks like a condom or something.	Good colors!	Good too.	A little too formal perhaps. A little too New York Times.

Idea #7: Give me your feedback	Idea #8: Give me your feedback	Which Masthead do you like best?	What kind of articles would you like to see in the newspaper?
This one is probably my favorite one, because it looks very nice and also has the Bruins colors. Also has a catchy saying at the bottom.	This one looks nice it just looks plain, like its missing something.	Idea number 7	things that relate to our school that can interest kids .
I don't prefer this one. Something just seems off and the outline on the light looks odd	This one is my favorite with the water design but it hides the text and buoy.	I like Idea #2 the best.	Mostly events that are going on and what days clubs are and any fundraising thats going on or even what events are happening around the school.
Its the same but huge so NO	This ones nice but maybe do the wording like you did for the 1nd one then its 1st	the last one but needs fixes	idk
i think this one is cool but could use some more detail	i like the detail in the waves and the outline of the words looks good too	i like number 5 the best it loos official and the font is pleasing	a bunch of different things such as school events and problems
The yellow bulb on the buoy is too big, and the dark outline stands out as no other drawing or wording is outlined. A darker yellow would be nice. This logo does not work well with the blaring yellow bulb.	The graphic is great but the tides are overwhelming compared to the rest of the picture. The buoy is the simple navy blue fill, but the buoy from idea #3 might work well with this. This logo still needs work.	Idea #6 is the best logo if the newspaper is about keeping the students up-to-date about events and school participation related stuff. Idea #4 would work well if the newspaper was about the people around the school; background behind some of the teachers of top GPA students. #3 would be great if the newspaper was just about everything in general happening in the school. But overall, Idea 4 is the most striking and pleasing for modern designs. (There are great designs, its just my choices fluctuate when thinking about what the newspaper could be about).	Facts about teachers, fun stuff in the class, event details; typical school stuff.
I like how everything fits on this masthead and the motto below it	I think the waves should look a bit more natural	7	sports updates, school clubs, academic achievement, statistics of the schools growth, college campus trips
Feels like a downgraded version of the last one	A bit too complicated for a newspaper, but cool nonetheless.	either 2 or 6	Events / Student accomplishments (like if they do something to help the school/community, not just good grades) / Writing showcase / Drawing showcase
Similar thoughts to the previous one, although this one has a better font. "Buoy" seems t be too stretched though.	The quality of the waves does not match the quality of the buoy and looks a bit weird to me. The name is a bit better but I still think that 'Brookings Buoy' is a better choice.	It's a bit of a tough decision, but I believe masthead #4 is the best one. Overall it's simple, has a nice, legible font, and the name is easy to say. It might just be me but 'Bruins Buoy' does not sound as good and doesn't roll off the tongue as well, which are two very important aspects of a masthead or logo in general.	I'm not entirely sure what kind of articles I'd like to see. it really depends on what kind of newspaper this is. If this is a school newspaper then I'd probably like to see more than just articles, i.e. pushing CTE electives out and pushing out club. If club advertisements were put through this newspaper then it'd most likely substantially increase the amount of students wanting to partake in clubs and after-school activities. If it's just a town newspaper, like 'The Pilot', then I wouldn't really have an opinion on what I'd like to see in it.
how stretched the word 'buoy'is is weirding me out	i like how highly rendered the waves are but i feel like the buoy shouold be the focal point, but thats not represented here	#3	commentaries, humour, etc
a little too plain	I love the detail on this one	I love #8. I absolutely love the detail on the waves and the outline of the letters.	all kinds
	I like it but I would make the "BUOY" a little smaller and more visible	#4 and #8
boring	this is my fave	8	DRAMA , TEA, NEWS, GOSSIP Anything.
	I love the filled in waves on this one.	#6 and #8.
		Judy--These look fabulous!
