Market Insight

The All Ordinaries Accumulation Index fell 1.41% for the month but returned a positive 17.6% for the financial year. This follows up on the positive 20.7% return delivered during 2013. Despite these impressive gains global economic conditions remain mixed. In our December 2013 quarterly newsletter we outlined our concerns around the possible onset of deflation. On 5 June 2014, in an historical move the European Central Bank (ECB) dropped the rate on bank deposits parked overnight with the Central Bank to minus 0.1%, thereby charging commercial banks for keeping money at the ECB. That rate had been set at zero for the past two years, but ongoing concerns that inflation would remain stubbornly low continues to threaten the Eurozone's fragile recovery. While other Euro nations are holding rates or even cutting them, Bank of England is poised to lift rates for the first time since the financial crisis. Currently sitting at a record low of 0.5%, the expected rise reflects a UK economy experiencing GDP growth of 3.1%. In the US, the Federal Reserve continued to wind back its bond buying program with another $10 billion reduction, taking the monthly buyback to $35 billion. More importantly the Fed confirmed that the program will end this year, while also noting that US economic growth for 2014 would now range between 2.1% to 2.3%, falling below previous guidance of 2.9%. In her address Chairwoman Yellen also reaffirmed the US recovery was on track, with interest rates on hold until 2015. In Japan Prime Minister Shino Abe continues to pursue pro-growth policies. This time it is Japan's $US1.3 trillion public pension fund which is being targeted. For a country that has largely avoided taking risk when it comes to investments, the government is now proposing a change to the asset allocation mix. If implemented, domestically held bonds will fall from the current 60% allocation to 40% while domestic and foreign equity holdings will rise from 24% to 34%. The aim is twofold: to boost returns to ensure Japanese retirees get the payouts they expect and secondly to stimulate risk taking at home by funnelling money into Japanese businesses. In contrast to our anaemic economy, the New Zealand central bank lifted rates from 3.00% to 3.25% as strong GDP continues to underpin the economy. During June, local retail operators continued to post negative trading updates with Pacific Brands and The Reject Shop downgrading profits following sluggish consumer activity. This is The Reject Shops 2nd downgrade following the disappointing first half result and the subsequent loss of its CEO. We suspect structural change may be required in this business. Finally, Royal Dutch Shell sold down its remaining 23% stake in Woodside to 4.5%, following a decision to exit an investment that was first made in 1976. In 2001 a full takeover offer for Woodside was rejected by the then Treasurer Peter Costello. This ultimately led to the decision to exit the holding. For its part, Woodside is now free to pursue its own corporate strategy under new CEO Peter Coleman. We continue to favour businesses with:

1. Strongly aligned management teams
2. Business leadership qualities
3. Conservatively positioned balance sheets
4. Capital management

Portfolio Strategy

The strategy is focused on identifying and investing in listed businesses that sit largely within the ASX 300 Index.

Within this universe, we focus on stocks outside of the Top 20 as we believe the greatest value lies in the smaller, less researched businesses.

The investment style is both high conviction and index agnostic. Individual portfolio holdings typically range from 15-25 businesses.

Gross performance for the 2014 financial year saw the Fund deliver a positive 26.25% return compared to the Index rise of 17.64%, representing an outperformance of 8.61%. The Fund held 32 businesses at month end.

Investment Philosophy

Selector's consistent bottom up process looks at a combination of the quantitative and qualitative attributes of a business. We seek businesses with competitive advantages that drive industry leadership positions.

Portfolio construction is driven by Selector's consistent investment process combined with the Portfolio Managers' deep industry experience rather than benchmarking to an index. Selector believes indexing limits returns to investors over the long run. Selector's long term investment horizon aims to capture real earnings per share growth over time.

Selector invests in Australian equities, does not use leverage or derivatives and avoids start-ups and turnaround situations. Experience has shown that these simple constraints when combined with Selector's hard risk limits provide significant protection to the portfolio with limited impact on the performance of the fund.
