

Thanks for joining Ondine Young's Arlington Arts music studio!

Please note that starting in SEPTEMBER 2021, all students are invited to send 4 months of checks via post to keep your current price (they won't be cashed until first of the month).

If you enroll via PayPal recurring payments (many are already; thanks!); please add $5 per month, plus $5 per day of late fees).

However; for Venmo customers, there will be an additional fee of $10 per month if paid by the first of the month; and $10 per day late fees.

This is an effort to streamline so there is less time and confusion with the payment process.

Thanks again for supporting music education via ondineyoung.com

PS: if you feel ready for in person lessons; thank you for your patience... I prefer to wait until all children get vaccinated. So we will aim to experiment in Fall; we have a front porch set up in wildcat Canyon and are working on indoor possibilities; or we may try renting rooms at Piedmont pianos, notes music academy, crowden.org, NCMACC etc.) RSVP with your requests...scheduling might be complex, thanks

PPs:

My backyard is now ready for in person lessons, recitals , etc.!

Rsvp to join us?

Thanks!

Policies

Just FYI; I follow crowden.org make up policies.... I will do my best to make up your missed lessons if possible, but I am only required to make up/refund my own absences. Thanks for understanding!

Absences and Make-ups:

Crowden does not provide make-ups or grant refunds for regularly scheduled classes or lessons missed by students.

In case of instructor absences:

For group classes:

Crowden will provide a substitute teacher, or when no substitute is available, will issue a pro-rated refund for the missed class.

For private lessons:

Crowden values the expertise that its professional faculty offers to students, but recognizes that an active performance career may sometimes require teachers to cancel regularly scheduled lessons. Teachers may also have to cancel for personal reasons such as illness.

If a teacher cancels a regularly scheduled lesson, the teacher is expected to schedule a make-up session. Student flexibility in scheduling make-ups is appreciated; however, if the student and teacher schedules do not allow for make-up lessons, Crowden will refund the student any un-taught lessons at the end of the session.
