Springwood School has announced that Mrs. Pam Wood has joined their faculty for the upcoming school year. Pam is the wife of current Springwood teacher, Murphy Wood, and mother of Springwood Alumni, Forrest Wood (Class of 2014). Pam will be teaching Jr. High Social Studies this year.

Pam received her B.S. in Psychology from Lee University and in December will complete her Master of Arts in Teaching from LaGrange College. Pam worked 13 years as a Legal Secretary and 4 years as a Social Worker. She has experience working as a teacher at First Presbyterian Academy in Hinesville, GA. During her time at First Presbyterian Pam taught Social Studies, Math, Science, Health, and English. In addition to teaching, Mrs. Wood will be joining the Academic Leadership Team at Springwood. Her focus on the team will be in counseling.

Headmaster, Rick Johnson, said of Mrs. Wood, "We are delighted to have Pam Wood join us at Springwood. Mrs. Wood has been part of the Springwood family since 2011, when her husband began teaching here and her son became a student. She has great knowledge of the school and along with her experience she will be another terrific addition to our faculty."
