1. Overview & Background

1.1 Overview

Severn Rivers Trust is a registered environmental charity whose objectives are to improve the River Severn, its tributaries, and the Severn Catchment across both England and Wales. Severn Rivers Trust delivers its work through grant funded projects to make physical improvements to the river catchments (such as installing fish passage solutions and initiating tree planting schemes) as well as providing education and advice to local communities and businesses.

1.2 Project Background

The River Stour is a major tributary of the River Severn. Originating in the Clent Hills, the watercourse flows through varied arable, urban and urban fringe environments before joining the River Severn at Stourport. The Black Country has historically been recognised as an area of industry with iron forges and fulling mills being a common sight in and along watercourses. These industries have been attributed to the development of many settlements including Kidderminster and Worcester. However, these industries have negatively impacted on the aquatic environment through pollution and habitat fragmentation.

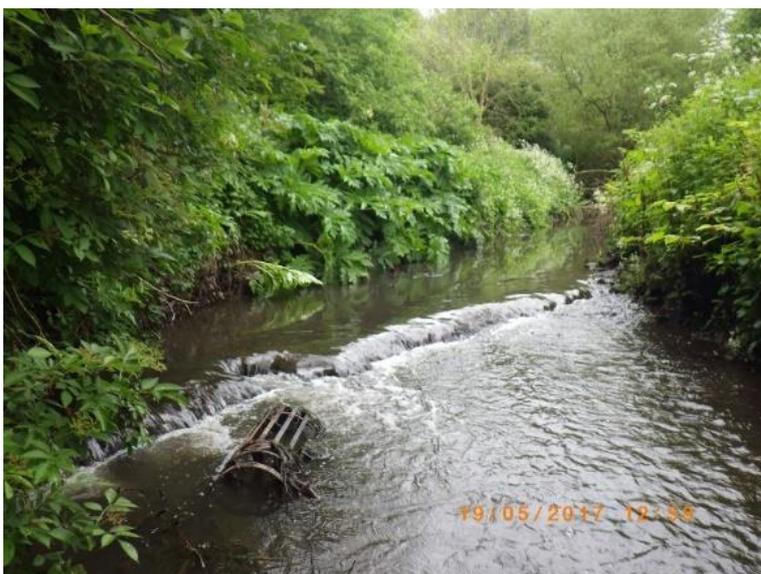

Declining Biodiversity Action Plan species such as Atlantic salmon (Salmo salar), trout (Salmo trutta) and the European eel (Anguilla Anguilla) utilise this watercourse for spawning opportunities as well as residing in the available habitat. Instream structures are a fundamental problem to many fish species impeding fish passage, reducing habitat quality and availability which interferes with natural lifecycles.

Severn Rivers Trust along with the Environment Agency are looking to open watercourses to allow the free movement of fish and other wildlife up and downstream. Our involvement in the River Stour is being continued with our focus at the Bridge Street Weir.
