Frequently Asked Questions & Answers

How will attendance be taken?

As students engage in remote learning, attendance will be taken by their logging in during live instruction. Teachers must see the student at each scheduled instructional session for them to be marked present for the day.

What do I have to do if my child is absent or unable to log in for virtual instruction?

A parent must call the school by 10:00 am on the day when a student will not be logging on for virtual instruction. The child will be marked absent for that day.

Is a “school day” the whole day (meaning, can they submit work at 11:59 pm and it still counts)?

As long as that day's work is completed and submitted by the end of that day the work is counted as being on time and will be graded.

Will teachers also be posting their lessons and assignments?

Yes, teachers will post their lessons either daily or weekly.

How will Special Education services be implemented within the proposed schedule?

Therapies, to the greatest extent possible, will be provided in an in-person format. We will be making appointments for students to come in and receive their service(s).

Therapies can also be provided virtually if you are unable to come into the building.

Child Study Team and I&RS meetings may be offered both in person and virtually to the greatest extent possible. As always, if you have any questions regarding your child's IEP, please reach out to your child's Case Manager.

How can students access learning materials that are in the building?

We will be setting up pick up times for parents to come and get all the materials students will need for virtual learning. You will be notified when your pick up time is. Check the website for dates.

Frequently Asked Questions & Answers

What if I do not have a device for my child or internet access at home?

Please call us and we will assist you with your technology needs.

Will my student be on the computer all day during remote learning?

No. Actual screen time will vary. Students are expected to log into each class on a daily basis, However, parts of each class period may not be all online. For example, a teacher may teach a 15 minute lesson then ask students to log off to work on an independent assignment for the remainder of the class. There are also breaks built in throughout the day.

Will remote learning in September have the same expectations as last spring?

No. Remote learning in the fall will be aligned with our Remote Instruction Expectations. These expectations for student, faculty and administration are in place so that rigorous instruction, student growth, and attendance can be closely monitored.

The key differences include, but are not limited to:

Students can and may receive zeroes for missing assignments;

Participation grades may be impacted by a student's attendance;

Student must participate in LIVE teaching and learning daily based on their schedule;

There can and may be grade penalties for students turning in late work;

Students are expected to log in for each class period, Monday through Friday, for LIVE, scheduled instruction.

Will the school building be open while remote learning is in place?

Yes, for essential activities and by appointment only. You can email or call to make an appointment. This is to ensure everyone's safety.

Can we still get breakfast and lunch?

Yes. There will be pick up on Monday's and Wednesday's between 7:30 am and 12:30 pm.
