What it's like to own one...

You're in the kitchen and you accidentally knocked over a glass jar full of almonds.

Now there's almonds everywhere and BROKEN GLASS on the floor.

Lucky for you, your dogs are outside.

You run to your closet and grab this hose.

You pick it up with one arm, carry it to the kitchen and plug it in.

You get busy, and in a few minutes you're all done.

The floor is perfectly clean, and you don't have to worry about any small glass splinters getting into your feet (because the suction is 3x more than the newest Dyson)

And your arms are not tired because the vacuuming tool only weighs 3 pounds.

That's what it's like to own a Central Vacuum.

What can you clean?

My gosh... a whole lot...

You just plug in your 30-foot hose...

... or pull out your 50-foot hose...

And then you can quickly clean your...

Hard floors

Carpets

Rugs

High Ceilings

Furniture

Underneath low furniture

Stairs

Garage

Cars

Dogs

And if you want something a little extra special, you can even get one of these:

Automatic Dustpan

Mini Vacuum on the Wall

How does it work?

It's a 29-pound vacuum in your garage or basement

That's connected to pipes (in your walls, basement, attic or crawlspace).

Those pipes lead to inlets

Where you plug in or pull out a hose (your choice).

Attach an accessory and get busy.

Popular Upgrades in LA

Hose stored in the wall

This holds a 50' hose inside your wall. To use it, you just pull it out and flip a lever to lock it into position. Then you flip a switch to turn on the suction.

People love this because you don't have to store a big hose anywhere and it's real easy to pull it out.

Automatic Dustpan in Kitchen

It's about the length of your hand and is usually at the bottom of a cabinet in the kitchen. You just tap this with your foot, and it starts sucking. Tap it again and it stops.

People love this because you can kick dirt right into it, and it'll be sucked away instantly.

Miniature Vacuum on a Wall

People usually have this in their laundry room or bathroom. You just detach that little hose and it immediately starts sucking. Put the hose back into the socket and it turns off.

People love these because it makes it super convenient to clean up little spills.

Inlet in the Garage

You (or your maid) can vacuum your car in less than 5 minutes. All you need is an inlet in your garage. Once you have one, you can plug in a hose and get busy.

This also makes it drop-dead-easy to keep your garage looking squeaky clean.

Cool Accessories

The Rug Rat

You just plug this little guy into your hose, and it cleans in the exact same way a carpet brush cleans. But, because it is much smaller it can get into places that are harder to reach, like the stairs or floor of your car.

Soft Hose Sock

This is a soft sock that you slide your hose into, so that when you clean, plastic is not rubbing against your furniture or walls, only a soft sock is. And, socks don't leave a mark.

Lint Brush for Hair

You just pop this little tool onto your hose, and it will gently suck away all the hair off your furniture, car seats, or clothing.

Pet Shedding Hose and Brushes

Depending on what type of hair your dog has, you can attach 1 of these 3 tools to the end of that special black hose (normal hoses suck too strong for a dog's skin, but this hose is designed to be gentle), then you comb your dog and all the hair is automatically sucked away.

Common Questions

Do your walls have to get ripped open?

No. It's easier to get a Central Vacuum when your walls are open, but it's not necessary.

Our technicians are clever and can build Central Vacuums into about 90% of LA's homes. They just need to scout it out first. Within minutes they can tell you if it's doable.

How long does it take to get one?

We can usually get a 3,000 sq ft house done in 2 days.

Or a 6,000 sq ft house done in 3 days.

How can I trust you?

We only do Central Vacuums and we've been in business for 42 years.

Each of our technicians has over 12 years of experience installing Central Vacuums into LA homes.

Plus, we have 100+ happy reviews on our website: www.AdvancedHomes.com
