

Job description

Life Size is looking for an enthusiastic and empathetic individual passionate about the climate to join our wonderful team as an intern. We are champions of cleantech and are firm believers in its potential to tackle the greatest challenges of our time. That's why we are Europe's only strategic communications agency to dedicate our sole focus in this sector, guiding cleantech companies to success.

Joining Life Size will offer you the chance to work in a purpose-driven environment and directly contribute to fighting climate change. You will be welcomed into a supportive team spread across the UK, Germany and Sweden, which is united by a shared set of values and trust and a desire to accomplish stimulating work that makes a difference.

We've long advocated a modern, flexible working culture. By offering a flexible working pattern, we ensure that each team member has the best mix of joyful personal life and a thriving career that suits their individual needs and environments.

The companies we partner with are leaders in their field, pursuing a bold vision of the way the world could be. Our communications roadmaps help these businesses to overcome any challenges in their path and achieve their commercial goals, whether these aims are international expansion, raising investment or attracting new customers.

We're looking for someone interested in communications who is willing to learn new skills and take an active role in all aspects of our client work. Supporting our own marketing activities will also be a crucial part of the internship, including writing blogs and contributing to social media. In return, you will receive individual coaching and a dedicated mentor, plus participate in company-wide learning and training. If you want to learn more about our internships, read this blog post by our former intern Helene, who has since joined us permanently.

The role

- Active involvement across our monthly campaigns and projects
- Deliver real value to our clients and partners
- Focus on PR-related activities, such as proofing content, researching information and writing press releases, articles and opinion pieces
- Participate in brand and content work
- Contribute to Life Size content marketing activities, including writing blogs and social media posts
- Provide fresh ideas and insights to the Life Size team
- Opportunity to create your own path and define a future long-term role with the company

The person

- Current student or recent graduate
- Native German speaker with strong writing skills
- Strong English proficiency
- Communications enthusiast
- Hands-on mentality
- Creative mindset
- Interest in technology and sustainability
- Willingness to take a deep dive into the world of cleantech

The benefits

- Work in a purpose-driven environment
- Directly contribute to combatting climate change
- Remote-first working set-up, including the provision of a company laptop if required
- Flexible working hours
- Individual coaching and dedicated mentor
- Participation in Life Size learning and further company training
- Fair remuneration

If you're interested, please send us your CV to mail@lifesizemedia.com.