

Boring Performance that You Can't Relate to But Might Just Need

Even though I work with the company that is hosting a ballet performance, I didn't really want to go. The music isn't my type, the story doesn't seem real and the male dancers look a lot like strippers.

But, I sat down and thought it through and one idea changed my mind.

I am busy all the time. There is always something I need to do and sometimes I feel like I don't get to do what I really want. And, even that's tricky because I don't always even know what I really want. But, the idea that hit me was this: "In a comfy chair in a dark room, next to my friends, watching someone do interesting things with their body... that would be a night we would remember"

See, I love my family and friends, but sometimes it's hard to find things to do together. We could watch a movie, but nobody would be able to agree on something. We could eat dinner, but my sisters would want Taco Bell and I would want The Habit. But, a ballet performance we could all agree that we wouldn't want to go.

But, we would go to be with each other.

I don't know if you have family nearby that you would like to spend some time with or some friends you'd like to grow closer too. But, wouldn't it be nice to do something weird with them? Wouldn't it be nice to do something just to be around each other?

That said, I am going with my family to one of the evening performances.

I know you feel similar to me and I don't want you to miss a special chance to grow closer to friends or some family you really care about. But, this Ballet Performance at the Fox Theatre in Redwood City is pretty popular and you won't get this chance again.

So, go to this site right now _____ and don't just reserve a ticket for you. Get at least two. That way when you ask someone to go with you, you can say you already bought a ticket and that makes it way harder to wiggle out of!

Do something weird for a change, you are a very unique person.

Hope to see you there!
