

COMPARISON OF PHARMACOPOEIA MONOGRAPHS FOR MEDICINAL GASES

INTRODUCTION

This document provides a link (see below) to the EIGA Doc 152/18/E – ‘Comparison of European, US and Japanese Pharmacopoeia Monographs for Medicinal Gases’. There are three prime regional Pharmacopoeia organisations that are responsible for preparation and publication of pharmacopoeia monographs. It provides a cross reference between the three sets of published monographs to enable comparison of requirements for each method. After MEGA’s presence in the MENA region it can also suggest on legal requirements of the region.

The EIGA publication, Doc 152/18/E can be used by MEGA in the original version under EIGAs copyright to cover the pharmacopoeia monographs for medicinal and pharmaceutical gases published by the:

- European Pharmacopoeia;
- United States Pharmacopoeia; and
- Japanese Pharmacopoeia.

It includes the monographs for gases used in the manufacture and supply of medicinal products including:

- Medicinal gases, that are used as active ingredients in medical gases and gas mixtures supplied for patient use;
- Excipient gases, that are added to gas mixtures but have no pharmacological effects; and
- Pharmaceutical gases that are specified in the manufacture, storage and distribution of medicinal products.
