Distributor's notes

Esencia Rural was founded in 2001, but as the case with many in Spain, Julián Ruiz's family has been growing grapes and farming in this area for more generations than he can remember. Agriculture is his life with grapes being only one of the many crops he grows. 38 hectares of land (at between 680m-740m of elevation) include black garlic, peppers, onions, potatoes, saffron....if La Mancha has it, he grows it.

He's also pretty much the godfather of Spanish orange wine. Actually, in his eyes it's just white wine. His family has been making it this way long before "everybody and their mother," as he puts it, started making orange wine. In fact, he has a problem with a lot of the orange wine being made in Spain as he feels most people are taking shortcuts. When you taste his wines, you'll understand what he means. We're talking a minimum of 3 months on the skins...

Organically grown Airén grapes (pre-phylloxera, ungrafted, dry-farmed, bush-vines) on sandy-calcareous with some clay near Toledo. Hand harvested in 3 passes until December (partially botritized grapes) and fully destemmed (also by hand). Maceration of 403 days on skins in stainless steel tanks. Spontaneous yeast fermentation, full malolactic. Aged for several months in stainless steel tanks with the lees. No fining, filtering, no SO2.
