

Priority Protection for Our Front Line

PZero makes surgical masks in a Los Angeles cleanroom facility with the highest quality materials. The most important part of the face mask -- the middle filtration layer called meltblown -- is made in the USA. We test our masks regularly with laboratories that follow strict FDA testing guidelines.

Our unique EARBAND mask is designed for long-term wearing without fatigue. Unlike narrow earloops that can hurt the ears after less than a half-hour of wear, our earband masks take pressure away from a single point. So people who need to keep their masks on all day will not have ear fatigue from long-term wear.

For the first time since we began manufacturing in the USA, we are offering domestically-made surgical - grade face masks available at wholesale quantities.
