

Episode Overview

In this episode we celebrate the students' mahi throughout the series, what they have learnt and in what ways have they taken up the challenge to become kaitiaki. We visit Te Papa's Art Gallery, Toi Art to learn why the way we display the taonga in our museums is an important part of being kaitiaki. This episode is designed for students working at levels 3-5 of the NZ curriculum.

Resources to Support Whānau with Learning from Home

Digital technology is now a compulsory part of the New Zealand Curriculum that can be woven across other learning areas to create authentic future focused learning.

This resource will support you and your child to extend their learning with links to support materials for our digital tools and unplugged activities, further research and print resources that you can use at home.

Unplugged Activity – Make a Micro Museum

Like we did on this episode you can use an old box to make a micro museum for your artworks. Maybe you can display images of what you have made throughout the series. Here's an example of how you could do it. Remember to think about how you display your artworks so that they are safe.

Digital Tool Tips and Tricks - Clap Motion

Clap Motion is a free app for Google Chrome. You need to be using Chrome as your browser to install it. CloudStopMotion.com is an alternative app that works in any browser. Stop Motion animation is where lots and lots of photos are taken and run together so it looks like a movie. Check out our ClapMotion instructions. Episode 8 uses stop motion animation to show how museums display their taonga.

Technology Progress Outcomes	Designing and Developing Digital Outcomes PO2: In authentic contexts and taking account of end-users, students make decisions about creating, manipulating, storing, retrieving, sharing, and testing digital content for a specific purpose, given particular parameters, tools, and techniques. They understand that digital devices impact on humans and society and that both the devices and their impact change over time.
NZC Learning Areas	Social Sciences - Identity, Culture, and Organisation – Students learn about society and communities and how they function. They also learn about the diverse cultures and identities of people within those communities and about the effects of these on the participation of groups and individuals. The Arts - Visual Arts - Students learn how to discern, participate in, and celebrate their own and others' visual worlds.
Learning Intentions	Learn how people and taonga are displayed, shared and celebrated in different ways. Create and test digital content for the purposes of a digital outcome (Stop Motion Movie).
Success Criteria - Students will be able to	Identify the best form of display to highlight the important aspects of a taonga. Design and create display techniques for personal taonga. Identify the most important skills for animation. Complete a stop motion movie using the Cloud Stop Motion app.
