

FILM, TV & VIDEO PRODUCTION

At Oakfields College we will help you unlock your inner director by exposing you to all the aspects of filmmaking; focusing on the truly creative thinking that has 'Box Office Success' written all over it. The most important credits we offer in this course are the ones where your name appears at the end of your first movie.

You will learn to communicate dramatic information, ideas, moods and feelings through the making and producing of films and videos and you will complete a range of assignments including a music video, a short film and a documentary, giving you a broad range of the different types of productions required for your digital show-reel. Our two-year film, television and video production programme offers you an excellent opportunity to expand your creative talent and is an exceptional start on your journey into the film industry. If you have always dreamt of creating a world of entertainment from behind the lens of your camera, then push the record button with us. The software programmes used in this course include Premiere, DaVinci, Cubase and After Effects.

On completion of the first year Further Education and Training Certificate in Film, Television and Video Production you have the option to continue with the second year National Certificate in Film, Television and Video Production.
