Failure to properly deal with Data subjects' access rights was the cause of the most complaints to the Data Protection Commission last year (30% of all complaints post-GDPR). In an era where systemic failure to manage such issues could result in a significant fine or litigation, it is vital to understand this issue and manage this process correctly.

This intensive one-day CPD course will offer expert insight and information on important issues when it comes to GDPR, Subject access requests, FOI and the right of access. We will show the similarities between data protection and FOI, exemptions under both, and where they both overlap. We will show you how to effectively deal with requests, with a step-by-step approach to approaching both FOI and Data Subject Access Requests.

Course Content

- An introduction to the changes introduced by GDPR for DSARs and erasure requests
- Step by step approach to DSARs (Data Subject Access Request) and erasure requests
