

Never let a payment get in the way of a great client relationship.

You have a good thing going with your clients. They trust you. They respond to your texts. They know you care about them. Once a client has decided to purchase the last thing you want is for them to second guess their decision. So why not make the purchase process easier by letting them do it over text?

Now you can.

With Clientbook Payments your customers can pay invoices or make down payments instantly from their phones, whether they are in the store, at home, or on their lunch break. No need for them to come in or call with a card number. Or worse, send a picture of the credit card number.

Clientbook Payments makes it easy and gives sales associates one more clienteling tool to strengthen the relationships they have with their clients by taking the hassle out of the purchase.
