Designation of a Personal Representative

A personal representative may act on behalf of the patient for the purpose of:

- Authorizing use and disclosure of protected health information
- Receiving information that otherwise would be sent to the patient

A patient may designate a personal representative in writing. However, a person who is identified in the patient record as having a medical power of attorney or other legal authority to act on behalf of the patient will be recognized as a patient representative. A parent or legal guardian of an un-emancipated minor (generally a child under the age of 18) will be recognized as a personal representative of the child.

A personal representative may receive protected health information concerning the patient necessary to carry out the representative's legal duties to the patient (for example, providing an informed consent to treatment or, for enforcing an advanced directive concerning life support).

The following individual(s) are my personal representative(s) and is authorized to act on my behalf and/or receive information on my behalf.

Personal Representative(s) Name: (List any family member or other person we can disclose your health information to)
