We're up to the TASK of protecting your business.

We understand the risks you face. Claims of wrong advice or negligence if a product does not perform as represented – even personal injury should it be implicated in an accident – can and do happen. And if a product is recalled, you could also be involved in a product liability case.

We help you protect against professional liability with a suite of coverages tailored to the unique needs of Manufacturing Sales Representatives. In addition, we provide general liability coverages for bodily injury, property damage and personal injury to help round out your risk management strategy.
