

LDC Advisory Network Reception: San Antonio Chapter September 4, 2018

The Latino Donor Collaborative was founded to promote insight into the valuable contributions American Latinos make in fields like politics, commerce, and entertainment.

The LDC's foundation begins with influential Latinos from business, media, and entertainment, engaging in conversations about LDC whereabouts with our strong business leaders.

- The LDC connects with business leaders through local chapters and receptions in various cities nationwide.
- The LDC promotes insight of invaluable research and fact based data through presentations of original research and GDP reports.
- The LDC advances the Latino brand through educational outreach and dialogue creation illustrating the importance of the Latino market.

The LDC San Antonio Reception: An Evening with the Latino Donor Collaborative, held at UTSA this reception encouraged great discussions with business and tech national leader Beatriz Acevedo and the Executive Director of the LDC, Ana Valdez, on the fact-based data of how Latinos are driving the growth of the American economy. This event was hosted by Advisory Network member Bruce Barshop, of Barshop Ventures and the University of Texas at San Antonio.
