ANNABELLE'S STORY

Annabelle was facing lockdown with her son in a small studio flat with no outdoor space. When lockdown forced her playgroup sessions to stop, like many parents Annabelle found herself with nowhere to turn.

Annabelle was desperate for a safe space for her son to play
"I was so scared of Covid and didn't want to leave the flat...I have mental health concerns, and lockdown was getting to be too much. I was worried about my son's future - how all of this was going to affect his development. Then I was referred to the Centre."

At the Centre, we have a large family space so we could offer safe play sessions one family at a time. Annabelle says "I was really nervous, but I felt relaxed as soon as I came here. The staff were very welcoming. My son is learning something new every time he comes and he's started talking a little bit more. I get to speak to people! Before, I was speaking to no one and wasn't seeing any people face-to-face. Now I know my son is having fun and I can relax."

For Annabelle and her son, coming to the Centre weekly during the crisis has been a real lifeline: "I think I would have struggled more if I didn't have somewhere like this. I would have felt more lonely. The Centre made life a lot easier."
