New York, NY, January 5, 2021-- TransWorld Holdings Inc (OTC PINK: TRWO), to be renamed Charge Enterprises, Inc., today announced a key hire to support growth in its Charge Infrastructure division, which offers patented, unique and problem-solving solutions that solve last mile micro-mobility infrastructure challenges to metropolises throughout the world. Andrew Pressler has been named Operations Lead.

Andrew Fox, TransWorld's CEO and President, commented, "We are investing in our team to answer the enormous interest Charge is receiving in our patented micro-mobility infrastructure solutions. Mr. Pressler also served as Operations Lead at Lime, a San Francisco based maker of app-supported shared smart bikes and scooters revolutionizing micro mobility and empowering a new urban lifestyle, managing special projects, including site selection and operations, deployments and mapping. Prior to that, he was an Associate at GGP, an Atlanta based real estate company now part of Brookfield Partners, an Associate at Brixmore Property Group, an Atlanta based real estate investment trust (REIT) and held other real estate and sales positions.
