CONCRETE CRUSHING

The process of concrete crushing is one that allows you to recycle unwanted demolished materials into usable building materials, saving you both time and money.

JSR is able to offer crushing services as a subcontractor or as a principal contractor as part of a wider scope of works. The process minimises the need for new materials to be used. There is also an environmental benefit to using crushing on a project, with a significant reduction in waste levels, there is a lower need for transportation costs to and from a project.
