Case Study : SME Lending

India's Small and Medium Enterprises (SME) accounts for 45% of industrial output and 40% of the total exports. It generates employment for 60 million people and creates 1.3 million jobs every year.

However, in spite of its contribution to the socio-economic growth of India, SMEs face lack of capital due to inadequate access to finance and credit.

Challenges faced in paper based process

Expensive

High cost of paper process – Signing, courier, storage, physical verification of documents takes up time, employee effort and is expensive.

Compliance

Increased cost of legal compliance – Additional cost to manage documents, procure stamp papers & ensure compliance and lack of errors

High TAT

Having many borrowers/guarantors sign the same document leads to wastage of time, taking it 5+ days of close one case.

The disbursement process is slow; may lead to drop offs as other SME lenders digitize their processes.

Extra workers

Additional employees to manage and verify documents and data inputs.

Leegality
