

Influencing Skills

To be successful, both in your personal life and professional life, it is vital to become influential – being able to get people to act, think or feel differently.

The Influencing Skills workshop is for you if you need to influence others. This may be influencing as part of a leadership role, or influencing where you are in a partnership, project group or other setting (such as campaigning or negotiating) where you need to persuade others.

The Influencing Skills workshop is designed to help you understand how influencing works, provide you with practical tips and techniques to become more influential and help you work on building an effective personal influencing style.

This one-day workshop will be delivered by Zoryna O'Donnell, MBA, FInstLM - an experienced trainer, coach and mentor.
