Bunny Food List

by po bunny

*Based on experience, research, and guidance from various sources.
Please consult with your vet in case your bunny has special dietary needs :)

Feeding Guide: Bunnies need unlimited access to hay. Pellets are limited to 1/8th cup/day for small bunnies and 1/4th cup/day for larger bunnies. Introduce veggies when your bunny is 4 months old. Feed half a cup of greens per pound of body weight.

Hay: Give your bunny a mixture of fresh timothy and orchard hay. A variety of hays is good for your bunny's digestive system

Pellets: Start with alfalfa pellets and slowly switch to timothy pellets at 6 months (switch slowly by mixing in new & old pellets)

Alfalfa Pellets: High in calcium - good for bunny's bones when they are small Timothy Pellets: Good for bunnies 6 months and older as too much calcium is bad for them

Leafy Greens: Feed a variety to your bunny everyday

Arugula	Basil Leaves	Beet Greens	Carrot Tops	Chicory
Cilantro	Collard Greens	Cucumber Leaves	Dandelion Greens	Endive
Escarole	Frisee Lettuce	Green Leaf Lettuce	Mint	Radicchio
Radish Tops	Red Leaf Lettuce	Romaine Lettuce	Turnip Greens	Watercress

High-Oxalate Leafy Greens: Feed to your bunny only 1 - 3 times a week

Boc Choy	Kale	Mustard Greens	Parsley	Spinach

Non-Leafy Veggies: Feed to your bunny sparingly

Bell Peppers	Carrots	Celery	Chinese Pea Pods	Pumpkin
Summer Squash	Tomatoes	Zucchini

Fruits: Feed to your bunny as a treat because fruit is high in sugar (half a teaspoon per pound of body weight)

Apples	Bananas	Blueberries	Kiwi	Melons
Mangoes	Oranges	Papaya	Peaches	Pears
Plums	Strawberries			