Endorsement for the Greater Series

To whom it may concern,

I want to tell you about the excellent series that Fantail Studios has produced called Greater. The team has created a fantastic resource on important topics of mental health in an easy to understand and accessible way. As a counsellor, I have found these topics are often not discussed openly, or shared in either an academic or a confronting manner. What I have appreciated about the Greater series is the sensitive way it has portrayed each person's journey towards healing. From the feedback I have seen, the content contains some powerful moments for viewers that have been the catalyst for change in their own lives.

There is such an incredible need in our community to better understand issues of spiritual, emotional, mental health, and to help people journey towards healing. The Greater series does this outstandingly well. Although the series is primarily for people who have a faith in Jesus, the way it is constructed means it also has the potential to be very powerful for those who are not Christian but are spiritually open.

Many people have not yet realised that they do not have to live as they are and endure what afflicts them; that there is hope for progress, healing and change. It was because of this very reason that I was, and am, very pleased to donate my time and expertise to this endeavour. This message of help and hope needs to reach as many people as possible. Would you join me in generously supporting Fantail Studios so they can produce more of these brilliant resources and see countless more lives impacted for good?
