FACULTY

Our Psychiatric Residency Program is supervised by Program Director Dr. Allie Thomas-Fannin, MD. Dr Thomas has been with Good Samaritan and the Samaritan Center since 2016 and was instrumental in the creation of the psychiatric residency program. Dr. Thomas received her undergraduate degree from Haverford College, medical degree from the University of Louisville and performed her residency at Duke University and the Veterans Administration.

Joining Dr. Thomas are Associate Program Director Dr. Willard Whitehead and Core Faculty Members Dr. Michael Cantwell and Dr. Glen Oriaifo from Good Samaritan. Faculty also includes medical directors of Southwestern Behavioral Healthcare, St. Vincent Hospital Adult Mental Health Unit, Behavioral Health Services of Memorial Hospital, and the Easterseals Rehabilitation Center.

WHY SHOULD I CHOOSE THE INDIANA UNIVERSITY / GOOD SAMARITAN PSYCHIATRY RESIDENCY CLINIC?

You should choose the Indiana University Psychiatry Residency Clinic because the Resident Physicians have graduated medical school and seeking their specialized training in the field of psychiatry. Residents are actively involved in research and study the latest methods and therapies for treatment of mental and behavioral illnesses..

Each Resident Physician staffs all cases with a board certified psychiatrist. When you choose the Indiana University Psychiatry Residency Clinic, you are not choosing just one physician, but a network of board certified psychiatrists with over a century of collective knowledge to ensure you get the best treatment possible. Additionally, our state-of-the-art clinic allows for real-time monitoring of all appointments to ensure the highest level of care is maintained.
